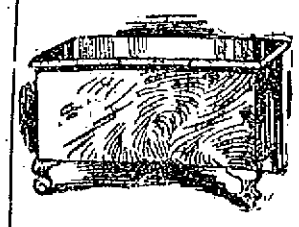
THE HALL OF YOUR HOME.



If a Hall Chest is as yet a stranger to your home you should introduce it with the least possible delay, for as a valiant friend it is well worth having. You'll wonder how you ever got along without it, once it's installed in the hall. It serves the dual purpose of a seat and a receptacle for "odds and ends." We've tried to picture a special Titus offering in

THE BROAD OAK CHEST

As shown above, but we fail utterly to convey a correct idea of its attractiveness in the dull oak finish which brings out every view of the wood so very clearly.

It stands twenty inches high from the floor and measures thirty-seven inches in width. You'll derive satisfaction worth ten times its cost from its all round helpfulness - - - - - - $12.00

LEWIS IS GIVEN DEEP GRILLING.

Detectives on Trail of Other Gun Men Sought.

Whitman Goes to Boston, Where He May Work on an End of Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Whitey Jack Lewis, one of the four men accused of shooting down Herman Rosenthal was given a third degree grilling today to glean further information that would supply corroboration of the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose, Harry Vallon, and "Bridgie" Webber, that Police Lieutenant Becker sought the death of Rosenthal. Lewis, whose real name is Frank Seidenshue, was picked up yesterday on the station platform at Fleischmans, N. Y., just as he was about to take a train for the West. He was brought to this city this morning by Detective Harvey.

The trip to this city was without incident until the train drew into the Weehawken terminal. There a band of six or seven East Side gangsters leaped over the gate separating the platform from the tracks and started toward the train. Suddenly their eyes fell upon several headquarters detectives, who had been sent across the river to assist Detective Harvey, and the gangsters slunk back into the station. No move was made to rescue the prisoner, who was quickly taken to headquarters, where he was locked up to await the arrival of Police Commissioners Waldo and Dougherty.

Lewis said that he was on the point of giving himself up, as he had heard the police wanted him. He would not say where he had been in hiding. He declared that he could aid and would prove an alibi. He asserted that he was out of the city at the time Rosenthal was shot to death, but he did not tell where he was. He would not say what he was doing at Fleischmans, but reiterated that he was stopping at a reputable place and with "respectable people."

It is thought that detectives are on the trail of other "gun men" wanted in the case, including Harry Horowitz, otherwise "Gib the Blood," and Louis Rosenberg alias "Lefty Louie." The latter is said to have been in Boston Wednesday.

District Attorney Whitman when asked about the report that it was the bullet from Rosenberg's gun that killed Rosenthal, remarked; "Yes, I have heard that it was the bullet from "Lefty Louie's" gun that killed Rosenthal, but that does not lessen the crime of the others engaged in the murder. They are equally guilty with him. I am anxious to get hold of all of them. They are a danger to the community." "Lefty Louie" has a reputation in gang land as a sure shot. He is vain of his accomplishment.

District Attorney Whitman is said to be keeping under cover several important witnesses whose evidence will go a long way in building up the case against Rosenthal's murder.

Police Lieutenant Becker still remains non-communicative. To all questions he replied: "I have nothing to say." He reads everything in the newspapers closely in connection with the case.

During the forenoon District Attorney Whitman left for Boston to be gone until Monday. It was said that he would work on some end of the case while away, but just what could not be learned. At the same time it is understood that the prosecuter feels the need of a week-end rest. His wife and daughter will join him tomorrow and they will spend Sunday somewhere in the White mountains.

The report that "Lefty Louie" had been seen recently in Boston is believed to have no bearing on Mr. Whitman's trip.

BORDEN STATES POSITION.

Canada Prepared to Help Great Britain Maintain Naval Supremacy.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Robert L. Borden, prime minister of the Dominion of Canada, who this week invited British cabinet ministers to visit Canada, has, during his visit to London, made his position very clear on the justness of the naval assistance that Canada is to offer the mother country. Mr. Borden and his colleagues of the Dominion cabinet told the British cabinet that Canada is prepared to help Great Britain maintain her naval supremacy, but when she does so she will want to be consulted as to the way the money is spent.

When Mr. Borden and his five colleagues arrived it was announced with a great flourish that they came with an offer to contribute a squadron of four Dreadnoughts to England. This was accepted by the public, so there is certain to be some disappointment when the part Canadian proposes to take is settled. Borden says this will not be until after his return to Canada and he has had an opportunity of consulting with the full cabinet.

"There are only five of us here and the cabinet consists of 13 members, so it is not likely that we should make any decision until we have had a full meeting," said the premier. "We are simply here," he added, "to find out the true position of affairs and secure all the facts for cabinet consideration."

These facts have been given by the members of the British cabinet and the committee of imperial defense at a series of joint meetings with the Canadian statesmen, who have also had the advantage of conferences with the officials of the admiralty and foreign office. These conferences will be resumed during the coming visit of Mr. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, to Canada. Mr. Borden is not overcommunicative as to what Canada is prepared to do. He reiterates that he is here only to gather information and not to make any offer. He is firm, however, in stating that whatever Canada does she must in return be consulted in the expenditure of her money.

If Mr. Borden is reticent as to what Canada will do he is quite outspoken enough as to what she wants in return for any contribution she makes. One of these desires is for a real imperial Parliament, representative of the whole empire, to deal with all matters of interest to the empire, which of course, would include foreign relations and the defense of the whole and each part.

WALKER DIVORCE ALLOWANCE CUT.

Amount Reduced by Court to $250 a Month.

Claim Made That Original Sum Would Force Respondent Out of the Navy.

[Special despatch to The News.]

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 2.—Civil Engineer J. W. G. Walker, U. S. N., respondent in the case for divorce brought by his wife, Nina Walker, now pending in the state courts, appeared before Judge Brown of the superior court today, with a motion to have the allowance made Mrs. Walker by the court reduced from the $300 which he is now paying each month. The hearing was long and during its progress the testimony of the respondent was a decided feature. The allowance was reduced to $250 a month. While the respondent was on the witness stand his private affairs were gone into deeply and his financial matters well ventilated.

Mr. W. H. Barney of Barney & Lee conducted the questioning for the respondent and William Paine Sheffield of Newport for Mrs. Walker. The repartee between Mr. Walker and Mr. Sheffield was at times exceedingly caustic and on two occasions Mr. Walker was cautioned by the court that he must refrain from commenting upon the questions of Mr. Sheffield.

Mr. Sheffield's questioning at one juncture was apparently with the intent of showing the calibre of Walker as a witness and a man. It was intimated that Walker had incurred debts amounting to $9,000 in order to avoid the support of his wife and four children. Mr. Barney took exceptions to such statements and in his argument said he thought the attitude of Mr. Sheffield was not a correct one for a leading barrister to take.

Walker testified that unless the allowance was reduced he would be would be forced out of the navy, as he would not be able to conduct himself with honor and as an officer of his rank should on duty and as his social standing incidentally demanded.

Although the examination went into great detail concerning the income of Walker, practically nothing was learned regarding the value of the estate of the late Rear Admiral Walker, father of the respondent. Various estimates have been made of the extent of the estate, but even his son could give little enlightenment. He thought it amounted to about $600,000, but admitted that he could not state definitely. The court and the lawyers could only figure that his income from the estate was about $1200 annually and it was contended that his total income was only $5900, of which he was required to pay $3600 to his wife.

He further contended that, owing to ill health due to his domestic trouble, he is now on half pay, as he is on leave of absence, and hence his income is reduced. He also stated that, while he is paying his $9000 in debts, his income is less than usual, and according to his estimate the least time in which he could clear this debt would be five years. Most of the debts, he said, were for lawyers, witnesses, evidence, etc. He denied that he had been squandering any of his money.

Mr. Sheffield in his argument dwelt considerably upon the pathetic side of the case, Mrs. Walker attempting to bring up and educate her four children, all under 15 years. Her effort is to bring them up on a standard in keeping with that of the families of both parents, and naturally the expense would increase as the years roll by.

Judge Brown, in summing up the testimony before rendering his decision, seemed to agree with Mr. Barney in the contention that if Mr. Walker were forced out of the navy his income would be further reduced and Mrs. Walker would be worse off.

Before the taking of the testimony Mr. Sheffield made two motions, first that the superior court has no jurisdiction to entertain a motion for reduction of allowance, since the case is in the supreme court; second, that if the judge should decide against the first motion a motion to reduce the allowance should be argued before the judge who made the allowance and understood the circumstances of the case.

Mr. Mortimer L. Sullivan of Newport called attention to the fact that the motion to reduce had been filed in the superior court before it went up to the supreme court, and that he had personally asked Judge Baker to hear the motion. The latter had refused, as he was on his vacation and another justice was on the bench.

The court denied both motions.

Mr. Walker was accompanied in court by a number of his naval officer friends, who listened with interest Mrs. Walker, attractively attired, sat beside her counsel, accompanied by her mother.

SEARCH MADE IN BOSTON.

Hunt Going on for "Big Jack" Zelig and "Lefty Louie."

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—It was admitted at police headquarters today that search was being made in this city for "Big Jack" Zelig and "Lefty Louie" Rosenburg, who are wanted in New York in connection with the Rosenthal murder. The request to begin such a hunt followed the report of an attack in New York upon Mrs. Marie Bassie, who lives in this city. The local police expressed a doubt regarding the presence of the two suspects in Boston.

COMPROMISE WOOL BILL AGREEMENT.

Will be Similar to Measure Vetoed by President Taft.

Iron and Steel Amendments Accepted, Except Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON Aug. 2.—An agreement between Democratic leaders of the House and Senate to frame a compromise wool bill, similar to that which President Taft vetoed last summer, was reached early today, following the meeting of the conferees on the iron and steel bill. The latter was expected to be finally passed in both houses today. A meeting of the wool tariff conferees probably will be held tonight.

Senator Simmons, representing the Democratic-Progressive alliance of the Senate, and Representative Underwood, Democratic House leader, agreed to such a compromise. The iron and steel tariff conferees proceeded today in accordance with the pre-arranged program. All Senate amendments to the House bill were agreed to, with the exception of that for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

The compromise on the wool bill will be on the basis of 29 per cent duty on raw wool instead of 20 per cent as in the House measure and 35 per cent as in the La Follette bill. On yarns the La Follette rate of 45 per cent and the House rate of 35 will be compromised at 35. On ready-made clothing, knot fabrics, women's dress goods and the like the La Follette rate of 55 per cent and the House rates, ranging from 35 to 50, will be compromised at 40. On combed wool and tops the La Follette rate of 40 per cent and the house of 25 will be compromised at 32.

The conferees on the wool bill are the same as last year, led by Senator La Follette and Representative Underwood.

The iron and steel revision bill, upon which a final agreement between the two houses was ordered today, proposes an average duty on all classes of imports of about 22 per cent, as compared with an average under the Payne Aldrich law in 1911 of about 34. The House today resumed consideration of the cotton revision bill to reduce duties approximately 21 per cent. Majority Leader Underwood expressed his expectation of passing it today. It was agreed to end debate at 5 o'clock and vote.

The disagreement of the conferees on the Senate reciprocity amendment was reported to the House by Chairman Underwood and that body immediately sent the bill back to the Senate with the demand that it be dropped.

LODGE RESOLUTION PASSED.

Defines Country's Attitude in Disapproval of Acquisition of Land.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—After a three-hour debate behind closed doors, the Senate today, 51 to 4, adopted the Lodge resolution, defining the attitude of the United States in disapproval of the acquisition by foreign interest of any territory on the western hemisphere which might be used as military or naval bases or menace "the approaches" of this country.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

All the Features, on Which Taft Based His Veto Eliminated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—With practically all features upon which President Taft based his veto eliminated, the army appropriation bill was again reported to the Senate today by the military affairs committee, carrying appropriations of $94,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 over the amount proposed by the House. The Senate committee struck out the House provisions, changing the enlistment tenure from three o five years.

The consolidation of the offices of quartermaster general, commissary general and paymaster general into one bureau, and the provision for consolidating the offices of adjutant general, inspector general and chief of staff were eliminated.

The bill, as the House re-passed it, was changed only in that it did not carry the proposal to remove General Wood, chief of staff, from office.

NOT TO RESIGN GOVERNORSHIP.

Wilson to Continue in Office Although Nominated for Presidency.

SEA GIRT, N. J. Aug. 2.—Formal announcement was made today by Governor Wilson that he will not resign the governorship of New Jersey during his campaign for the Presidency. The governor had kept his mind open on the question of resigning ever since the Baltimore convention. Leading Democrats in the state, however, have urged him to follow the precedent of Grover Cleveland, who was nominated for the Presidency, but continued in the office of governor of New York.

Governor Wilson is keenly interested in prospective reports from the committee investigating the tax problem and the efficiency of state affairs in New Jersey, and prominent Democrats have asked him not to forsake his office unless called to a higher one.

CONQUEST OF MT. SIR SANFORD.

Highest Peak in the Selkirks Reached by Howard Palmer.

NEW YORK, Aug., 2.—The conquest of Mt. Sir Sanford, the highest peak in the Selkirks, by Howard Palmer, secretary of the American Alpine Club, is announced in a message sent by Palmer to the American Geographical Society. The ascent of the mountain, which is 11,634 feet high and is practically one continuous wall of ice, was made June 24.

No less than eight separate attempts to scale the icy fastnesses of Sir Sanford have been made during the last half dozen years. No other peak in the Canadian Rockies has such a record. Only five of the expeditions ever reached the base of the mountain, and aside from the present expedition only one, that of Captain Culver of Winnipeg in 1911, actually set foot on the peak itself. Although it is among the highest of the world's mountains, it is the glacier which covers its surface which makes climbing difficult.

CUTS OFF HIS RELATIVES.

John Armstrong Chaloner Devises Property to Educational and Charitable Institutions.

John Armstrong Chaloner has made public the details of a deed filed with the clerk of the superior court, Halifax County, N. C., May 18, 1912, by virtue of which he devises all his property to different institutions and charities. The boards of visitors of the University of Virginia and of the University of North Carolina are made Chaloner's residuary legatees. The deed disposes of property worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, and was created, according to Mr. Chaloner, for the express purpose of preventing his relatives from sharing in his estate in the event of his death.

John Armstrong Chaloner has figured in court proceedings frequently in recent years. He was adjudged insane and committed to the Bloomingdale Asylum in 1897 at the instance of several of his near relatives. In 1899 he escaped from the institution and made his way to Philadelphia, where he voluntarily submitted to a six months' observation treatment by prominent alienists. These physicians pronounced him sane. Chaloner then returned to his ancestral estate, "The Merry Mills," at Cobham, Va., and has spent most of his time there and in North Carolina since.

A peculiar feature of Chaloner's case lies in the fact that he is legally a lunatic in New York state, but is perfectly sane and competent in every other state in the Union. In June, 1908, the superior court of North Carolina gave Mr. Chanler permission to change his last name to Chaloner, by which he is now known. He changed the spelling of his name, he said, to escape the stigma which had become identified with the name of Chanler owing to the court proceedings.

John Armstrong Chaloner married Amelie Rives, the writer, June 14, 1888, and she divorced him in 1895, because of incompatibility of temperament. She later married Prince Pierre Troubetzkoy, a Russian portrait painter.

Ever since his liberation from Bloomingdale Mr. Chaloner has shown the greatest bitterness against his relatives who sought to have him adjudged insane. He has at all times refused to treat with them, no matter what the occasion.

MORE HORSES THAN EVER.

The horse is not being replaced by the automobile, said the president of the National Harness Manufacturers' Association, in opening the twenty-sixth annual convention of the association in New York. There are more horses in this country than ever and they are commanding just as high prices as formerly in the market, according to Mr. Schell. There is just as great a demand for harness, and the manufacturers have sold more harness during the last year than ever before.

A CHINESE BANKNOTE FIVE HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

The assistant United States treasurer, in charge of the sub-treasury at Philadelphia, has received a Chinese banknote which is more than 500 years old. It was issued during the Ming dynasty, in the reign of the Emperor Tai-Tsee, who occupied the throne from 1368 until 1399. Its value was one kwan, or a string of cash.

THE HEAVENS IN AUGUST.

Many Shooting Stars Observable From Tenth to the Thirteenth.

Jupiter a Magnificent Sight Near Centre of Summer Constellation of the Scorpion.

[Professor Eric Doolittle of the University of Pennsylvania.]

Besides the innumerable objects of interest always to be found by one who explores the heavens with a small telescope, we will witness this month the bright August shower of shooting stars; we will have with us for observation and study the brilliant planet Mars approach so closely to a bright star that except by a careful inspection they will appear as a single star.

From August 10 to 13 the earth passes through the densest part of the stream of meteoric particles known as the Perseid swarm. On any one of these four nights the observer, by facing the northeast and watching for a few minutes, may see bluish, swiftly moving shooting stars dart outward in all directions from the radiant point in the constellation Perseus, indicated in figures 1 and 2, move a greater or less distance across the sky and finally disappear, usually leaving a phosphorescent trail behind them. The opportunity for witnessing the display is unusually favorable this year because the new moon occurs August 12, and therefore throughout all the four nights the sky will be dark. As the hours of the night go on, the radiant rises higher and higher in the sky, the most favorable hours of all for observation being between 1 o'clock and sunrise, though occasional stars may be seen at all hours of the night.

These shooting stars are caused by the collision of the earth with an immense swarm of little particles which are following the same path about the sun as the third comet of 1862, and are probably the remains of this comet, which has been torn apart and stretched out along its path by the attraction of the sun. As each dark and cold little particle of the swarm ploughs through the air of our swiftly moving earth it is burnt up by the friction and is seen by us as a shooting star.

The occultation of Antares by the moon, which occurred on the evening of June 26, was witnessed by many observers in the western part of our country, but in the east the skies were so generally cloudy that but few saw this interesting phenomenon. The path of the moon among the stars is at present changing so rapidly and the occultation was so nearly a central one that it will be repeated each time that the moon in its monthly course reaches this part of the sky during August, September and October. But by careful watching the observer may notice that each month the path of the moon in this part of the sky lies a little lower down than the path pursued the month previously. Consequently, as seen by us, the occultation is not visible, the moon passing below the star. Could we journey to the southern hemisphere on the night of any of the occultations we would see the moon apparently rising in the sky, owing to our displacement on the earth, and in time it would be seen to hide the star from view. On the morning of August 7 the moon will similarly pass squarely over the Pleiades as viewed from the southern hemisphere, but as seen from the northern latitudes it will appear to pass below them.

When any moon is thus hidden by the moving moon it almost always disappears instantaneously; it goes out suddenly as a flash of lightning; there is no hanging on the edge of the moon and no gradual fading away. Even when the phenomenon is photographed by an apparatus consisting a revolving, sensitive, photographic plate, no gradual fading can be detected. The star shines out in full brightness until the body of the moon actually hides it from view. This shows us clearly that the moon has no atmosphere, or, at most, an inconceivably rare one, for had our satellite an atmosphere only one two-thousandth part as dense as our own, there would be a distinct lingering and fading away of stars on its advancing edge.

A phenomenon of even more interest is the occultation of a star by a planet. This has been several times observed, but owing to the much smaller apparent sizes of the planets and their far slower motions, it is witnessed far less frequently, especially as all of our planets are so bright that the faint stars seem to disappear as the planet draws near them. The last observation of this nature to be reported was an occultation on the thirteenth of last August of a seventh magnitude star by the planet Jupiter, of which several observations and several photographs were taken. In this case the brightness of the star diminished as it drew near the edge of the planet, but what is of especial interest is that when apparently touching the edge it disappeared instantly, probably because a light suddenly became hidden by an impenetrable cloud of vapor. Usually the disappearance is gradual, the star "hanging on the limb," as astronomers say, until finally the intervening vapors become so dense that it is no longer visible.

Mercury, which reached its greatest distance east of the sun July 29, runs rapidly westward throughout the month, passing the sun and entering the morning sky August 7, but not reaching western elongation until September 7. It may be seen with difficulty low in the northeast just after sunset, toward the beginning of the month, and in the morning sky in the northeast toward the end of the month just before sunrise.

Venus is also too near the sun to be easily observed. Its sets in the northwest; only 32 minutes after sunset August 1, but this time is increased to 59 minutes by August 31, when it may be detected shining out in the northwest, very near the horizon, just after sunset.

Mars, though continuing its rapid eastward motion across Leo and into Virgo, is being so rapidly overtaken by the sun that it has now moved well beyond the borders of our map, and by August 27 it will have come to the bright yellowish star Beta Virginis. If the observer will turn due west at about 8 o'clock on any evening he will see these two bright objects only a short way above the ground and so near together that they can be distinguished only with difficulty with the naked eye. In a field of opera glasses or in a small telescope, however, they will form an interesting figure, the brighter and redder Mars lying a little distance to the south of the yellow star.

Jupiter will at once attract attention, as it shines out so brightly, a little toward the west of the south point, near the centre of the striking summer constellation of the Scorpion. It is still in excellent position for observation, and with its bright moons and its banded surface is a magnificent sight.

Saturn may be seen well up from the ground in the east, almost exactly midway between the beautiful groups of the Hyades and the Pleiades at 1 o'clock in the morning. The rings are now well widened out and the planet presents a beautiful sight in a small telescope. This part of the morning sky is now so attractive and will so well repay observation on account of the presence of Saturn, the occurrence of the August meteors and the close passage of the moon to the Pleiades, on the night of August 6, that we add this month a chart of it (Fig. 2).

Uranus is moving slowly west and south in the constellation Capricornus. Neptune is too close to the sun to be observed during this month.

It may be remembered that on the seventeenth of last April there occurred a most curious and interesting eclipse of the sun. This was remarkable from the fact that while our satellite was passing between the sun and the earth it was at such a distance from us that its great conical shadow was almost long enough to reach the surface of the turning earth itself. It was predicted that when the shadow first struck the earth in northern South America, its extreme apex, owing to the distance away of the moon at that instant, would not quite reach the earth's surface. Consequently, no part of the earth would then lie within the shadow and from no place would the sun be seen to be entirely hidden. Observers in the path of the produced conical shadow would then see the round, black ball of the moon lying entirely on the bright disc of the sun, but entirely around its edge a brilliant ring of sunlight would shine out.

As the shadow swept across the Atlantic ocean and then through central Europe and into Siberia it was predicted that, only for the short time while it was passing through the northwest corner of Portugal and Spain would the moon be so near as that the extreme point of the shadow would fall within its surface. Hence only such observers as were within one narrow little strip in this part of the earth would see the sun completely hidden, and even there the greatest duration of the total eclipse would be only about one second.

This was the prediction issued from Washington by the American nautical almanac. Now, the motion of the moon about the earth is of a wonderfully intricate character; to allow for the effect of the almost innumerable disturbing pulls upon our satellite and to predict its exact position among the stars and its exact distances from the earth at any time requires the most advanced methods of mathematical analysis which we at present possess. If the reader will consider how delicately adjusted the earth, moon and sun were at this time, and how very slight a change in the computed position of the moon would alter the path traced out on the earth by the extreme apex of its shadow 240,000 miles long, he can readily understand why the predictions contained in the almanacs of the different countries were in considerable disagreement. The position of the narrow path swept out upon the earth by the shadow, as predicted by the French authorities, was two miles south of that assigned by the American astronomers; on the other hand, the predicted position of the British and German nautical almanacs was two miles farther north than our. But when the time of the eclipse arrived it was seen that the shadow followed with almost perfect accuracy the American line—a striking evidence of the extraordinary perfection and accuracy of modern mathematical astronomy and a tribute to the efficiency of the directors of our own nautical almanac.

MEALS EN ROUTE.

Many Passengers on Trains While Away Tedium of Journeys With Picnic Luncheons.

[Boston Transcript.]

Now comes the significant announcement that a great railway company is to cheapen and simplify the meals served on its trains, especially the luncheon. American social history for two generations is to no little extent explained and illustrated in the various methods employed in that time to meet the gastronomic needs of railway travelers. From the "ten minutes" for refreshments to the proposed "quick lunch" of the dining car is an interesting and significant development.

When long, unbroken railway journeys began to be possible in this country, less than 75 years ago, the railway station "lunch counter" arose in response to a primal human need. Much the same thing had been known along the old stage routes, and it pleased the humor of the American traveling public to believe that the stage horn blew for "all aboard" just in time to prevent the diner from getting the worth of his money. The canal packets, which helped out the long distance traveler while yet railway lines were mostly short and ill organized, furnished meals aboard, and one may learn from that delightful and veracious little volume, "Pleasant Peregrinations Through the Prettiest Parts of Pennsylvania, Performed by Peregrine Prolix," how cheap and excellent was the fare upon the canal lines between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Our railways, however, were a little slow to supersede the station lunch counter with the dining car, and indeed the former has not yet wholly disappeared. Those who used the trans-continental lines in the seventies and early eighties, or perhaps even later, recall the excellent things that came from the huge private hampers of well-to-do travelers, viands often generously shared with others not so well provided. When the dining car was finally well established it was a subject of much complaint, and it was eschewed by no small portion of the traveling public, partly from economy, partly from gastronomic fastidiousness. True to the old and still potent American tradition, the mid-day meal was dinner, not luncheon, and in this particular it conformed to the habits of most travelers not resident in the great cities of the East.

Of late years there has been an increasing demand for a la carte meals in the dining car, and many travelers have plucked up courage to revive the private hamper. Perhaps the use of the automobile has helped this reversion to an earlier custom, for the luncheon hamper and the thermos bottle are natural appointments of the motor car. Passengers quite able to pay a dollar for a mid-day meal are now seen on trains between Boston and New York spreading a table with their own fare and whiling away the tedium of the journey with a picnic luncheon. Indeed, if the mid-day course meal of the dining car is really doomed, there will be few to mourn its disappearance.

BEVERIDGE HEADS THE TICKET.

Indiana Progressives Adopt Bull Moose as Party Emblem.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—Indiana Progressives in convention today named a full state ticket, headed by former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge as candidate for governor and former Congressman Frederick Landis for lieutenant governor; elected six delegates-at-large to the national convention at Chicago and two electors at large.

A platform was adopted advocating the initiative, referendum and recall, direct election of United States Senators, woman suffrage and primary nomination of all elective officials. The bull moose was adopted as the official emblem of the party.

County option, upon which the resolutions committee threatened to split, was approved in the final draft of the platform as the most practicable means of the control of the liquor traffic.

References by Mr. Beveridge in his speech of acceptance to the national leadership of Theodore Roosevelt stirred the convention to wild enthusiasm. The 1,400 delegates climbed on their chairs, shouted "Moose! Moose!" and waved banners, hats and bandannas.

FISHERY TREATY RATIFIED.

Controversy with Newfoundland of Many Years' Standing Ended.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Senate today ratified the North Atlantic fishery treaty with Great Britain, settling questions involving the Newfoundland fisheries which have been in controversy for many years. The treaty was signed by the representatives of Great Britain and the United States June 20 and carries out the decision of The Hague Court rendered September 1, 1910. It will become effective as soon as ratifications can be formally exchanged between the two countries.

THE KATHEMMA FINISHES.

Beaten by the Dream by Nearly Thirty-Six Hours in Bermuda Race.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 1.—The motor boat race from Philadelphia to Bermuda which started at 12:16 p. m. Saturday last ended this evening when the Kathemma crossed the finish line at 6:02 o'clock. The Dream, the smaller of the two contestants, crossed the line off David's Head at 8:44 o'clock last evening. Both boats experienced heavy gales and a rough passage over the course of 719 miles. Monday, when the storm was at its height, the Dream and Kathemma were hove to, the latter for 14 hours, and the Dream came in under sail.

The Dream, a 40-foot boat, owned by Charles L. Lagen of the Yachtsmen Club, was buffeted about and the crew suffered many hardships, all those on board being exhausted when they reached port. On the other hand, the crew of the Kathemma, although they admitted a rough voyage, were in fine condition. The greater length of the Kathemma—51 feet—and her 10½ feet breadth of beam, aided her materially in withstanding the heavy seas. Her steering gear, however, was broken and had to be repaired.

The elapsed time of the Dream, allowing for the difference in time between Bermuda and Philadelphia was 105 hours, 6 minutes and 5 seconds. The Kathemma's elapsed time was 126 hours and 39 minutes. The Dream had a time allowance of 14 hours, 14 minutes, 24 seconds. She therefore wins the Bermuda challenge cup and the $1,000 prize by nearly 36 hours.

Tuesday night a funnel shaped hurricane kept the wind to the starboard quarter, and the little cruiser kept clear. They came near throwing the lifeboats over. Two men were lashed to the wheel for 60 hours, the hatches being closed down. Walter Bielling, one of the crew, who has been in all the previous Bermuda races, said he had never seen a crew like that of the Dream. For 48 hours they had no food and the bilge was full of water.

WASHBURN WINS SECOND TIME.

Defeats Inman in Point Judith Singles —Tournament for New York Championship.

Walter M. Washburn of New York won the Point Judith Country Club's annual open tournament in singles Thursday afternoon for the second time, defeating in the final round "Fred" C. Inman of New York. Inman would have taken for his permanent possession the big trophy bowl if he had not gone down to defeat this year. Washburn's victory was achieved in straight sets by the score of 6-2, 6-2, 8-6.

In the doubles series the victors were J. D. E. Jones and Stanley Henshaw of Providence, who defeated in the finals H. A. MacKinney of Providence and S. L. Beals of Boston, in a grueling five-set match. The score was 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

The annual tournament for the New York state championship was started Thursday at the Crescent Athletic Club with a large field of entries, including the leading players of the country. The first round and 17 matches in the second were completed. The winners included H. W. Slocum, E. S. H. Pendergast, Allen Tobey, Dr. W. Rosenbaum, G. F. Touchard, F. C. Baggs, F. G. Anderson, S. H. Voshell, R. H. Palmer, A. D. Hammett, W. M. Hall, G. S. Groesbeck, A. Johnson, A. H. Man, Jr., H. L. Westfall and H. Tallant. S. H. Voshell furnished the only surprise of the day, defeating E. P. Larned, two sets to one. The Pacific Coast players, Maurice E. McLoughlin, Thomas C. Bundy and H. H. Braly, are expected to make their appearance in the tournament today, when they will arrive from Chicago.

ACCORDION SILENT NO LONGER.

Chefs Present Good Instrument to Old Blind Man Who Can Certainly Play Well.

That "silent" accordion player at the postoffice evenings is silent no longer. He at one time had an accordion whose powers were about exhausted and which could be heard only a short distance, and then only by giving close attention. Toward the close of 1910 some of the chefs who gathered about Lancaster's market, and saw the old blind man playing away on his "noiseless" instrument, came together and sent out of the country for a good accordion for him. Last year he was not here, but this year he is; and he has that instrument, contributed by his friends, the chefs. He certainly can do something with it. There is no occasion now for straining one's ears to hear what he is playing. He can also perform on a harmonica.

BOYS' SWIMMING RACE.

Takes Place of Yacht Club's Pair-Oared Skiff Event, for Which Four Entries are In for Next Week.

The sporting instinct seems to have petered out at the Newport Yacht Club, judging by Thursday evening's experience, for not even one pair-oared skiff was rowed to the clubhouse for the race which had been talked about for some weeks. There were plenty about who could row, but no one went into a skiff and said "Come on," and there was no race.

Instead, there was a swimming race, but that was by some of the boys who have looked on at the sports of the previous weeks. There were five of these lads and that they liked the water was shown by their fancy diving and swimming before the race began. The course was from Lopez wharf to the Yacht Club float and John Ladyman was an easy winner in 2 minutes, 57 seconds. Sam West came second in 3:14, and there was a close struggle between D. Moran and R. Fitzhugh for third place, the former winning by about an inch, as the two touched the float practically together, in 3:21. R. C. Gifford was fifth in 3:24.

The struggle for third place was a great one and both lads were well exhausted when the end came. However, they were game and when one of the spectators offered another prize for the two who did not receive any in the first race they promptly responded. This time Gifford seemed the fresher and won by one second over a shorter course, the spurt of Fitzhugh not quite carrying him to the fore.

There was some talk about the pair-oared race not filling, and the result was the filing of names for four crews who agree to be on hand and row next Thursday, sure. They are Williams and Arnold, Durfee and Wetherell, Squires and O'Connell, Hanover and Browley. It was suspected that the reason there was no race was because Mr. Browley had not entered, and once he said he would go in there seemed to be no trouble about other entries.

A GOOD SUNDAY DINNER.

The Veal Shoulder May be Prepared for Praising Saturday.

Peaches in Variety—Ice Cream, Delight, Snow, Spongade and Frozen Fruit.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

Potato Puree
Stuffed and Braised Veal Shoulder
Rice Timbales
Green Peas
Cucumber Salad
Cheese Wafers.
Molded Chocolate Corn Starch with Berries and Cream
Coffee

Some of these dishes may be prepared Saturday. Let us take first the dessert. Scald one pint and a half of milk in a double boiler. Mix together three heaping level tablespoonfuls of corn starch, three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and rub to a paste with a little cold milk. Pour this quickly into the scalded milk and stir until smoothly thickened, then cover and let cook for fully half an hour. Take off, flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla, pour into a wetted mold and set away. This and all the proportions given will be sufficient for six persons. To serve—turn out, surround the base with berries and serve with a pitcher of sweet cream.

Pick over and wash thoroughly one cupful of raw rice. Drop it into a kettle containing fully four quarts of boiling water. Add a half-teaspoonful of salt, cover, bring quickly to a galloping boil, partly uncover and boil rapidly until the grains feel tender when a few are rubbed between thumb and fingers. Drain in a colander. Butter six timbale molds, lightly pack them with the rice, cover and set away. Sunday, arrange in a steamer and steam for half an hour or until piping hot. Turn out on a platter and sprinkle with a little finely chopped parsley.

A shoulder of veal usually weighs from seven to nine pounds. Have the butcher bone it and deliver both bones and meat. Put the former in a kettle, add two quarts of water and simmer for three or four hours adding, when two thirds done, a small carrot, an onion and a clove. When done strain and set aside. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, fill the cavity with the stuffing and bind with a strip of muslin. Should any stuffing be left mold it in balls to be baked separately.

Sunday morning place in the braising pan a layer of sliced onions and carrots and on this place the meat. Heat the stock from the bones, add a pint of strained tomato and salt and pepper to taste and pour round the meat. Cover closely. (When you have no regular braising pan substitute any deep pan or kettle with a tight-fitting cover). Place in a moderate oven, allow half an hour for heating through and half an hour for each pound of meat. Three quarters of an hour before dinner uncover and quicken the fire that the meat may brown. Strain the gravy which remains, thicken it if desired and serve separately.

Peach Ice Cream—Scald one pint of milk in a double boiler; add two level tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed to a thin paste with a little cold milk, stir until slightly thickened, cover and cook for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat together four eggs, two cupfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt, stir in a little of the cooked milk and then turn all into a double boiler and stir until the custard thickens. Strain and set aside until cold. Pare, mash and rub through a colander sufficient peaches to give a little more than one pint of pulp and sweeten to taste. Add this to the cold custard with one pint of rich cream, pour the mixture into a freezer and freeze until firm. Remove the dasher, pack down the cream, cover with a long spoon, replace the cover, pack up the tub with ice and salt and set aside for several hours to ripen.

Peach Delight—Peel and halve two dozen large ripe peaches; put the pits in a small saucepan cover with one and a quarter cupfuls of water and boil for 10 minutes; then strain; with one cupful of sugar mix thoroughly two tablespoonfuls of flour. In a deep baking dish put a layer of the peaches, sprinkle with a part of the mixed sugar and drop over this one teaspoonful of butter cut into bits. Add a second and third layer of the fruit, finishing in the safe way, and pour over all the water strained from the pits. Make a rich biscuit crust with one and one-half cupfuls of sifted flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls butter, one teaspoonful baking powder and sufficient milk to mix to a soft dough. Roll out one-half inch thick, place it over the fruit, make several cuts for steam to escape and bake in a moderate oven. In serving, cut the crust in pieces like pie, lay on the fruit and pass with it a pitcher of cream.

Peach Snow—Soak one-half box of gelatine in one cupful of cold water until soft. Boil together for five minutes one cupful of sugar and one cupful of water, take from the fire and add the gelatine. Stir until dissolved, strain and add one and one-half cupfuls of peach pulp, prepared by rubbing the pared peaches through a fine sieve. Set aside, stirring occasionally until the mixture is quite thick. Whip the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth, add by degrees the fruit mixture and continue to whip until the whole mass is stiff. Pour into a mold wet in cold water and set on ice until firm enough to turn out.

Peach Spongade—Peel, stone and rub through a sieve sufficient ripe yellow peaches to give two and one-half cupfuls of pulp. Boil together, for five minutes, three cupfuls of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of water and set aside until cold. Whip the whites of six eggs to a froth, stir gradually into the peach pulp, add the cold syrup and freeze until firm. Pack and set aside for two hours and serve in glasses.

Frozen Peaches—To two pounds of the whole fruit allow one pound of sugar and one pint of water. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes, then stand aside until cool. Peel and halve the peaches and rub through a sieve. Add the syrup and freeze. By way of variety a pint of cream may be added just before freezing.

NO BISMUTH MINED.

So far as known to the United States Geological Survey the only bismuth-bearing ore produced in this country during 1911 was in La Plata county, Colorado, which carried six to eight per cent of bismuth. This ore, however, was sold for its gold and silver contents. Another lot of still richer ore was mined from a claim about 35 miles southwest of Tuiarosa, New Mexico. The imports in 1911 amounted to 172,093 pounds, valued at $311,771.

COOPERSTOWN'S CLEVER WIN.

Defeats Meadow Brook in Exciting Game for Open Championship at Point Judith Club.

The match for the open championship at he Point Judith Country Club, at Narragansett Pier Thursday was won in a clever way by Cooperstown from Meadow Brook, by the score of 3½ to 3, but the stanch upholders of the Long Island club were firm in the opinion that if L. Waterbury had played the result would have been different. He was on the field for a moment, but only to explain that his defection was due to a bereavement in his wife's family. Harrison Tweed, who has been No. 2 for Piping Rock and is one of the rising stars, took his place and played well among the fast team-mates.

Cooperstown had its usual formation, but played with more force than customary and well deserved to win. The game was pronounced one of the closest and most exciting, and often in the character of the plays equal to the best in the International Cup games at Meadow Brook.

In a game for the Army and Navy cups the Philadelphia Country Club beat Point Judith, 17 to 11, after giving six goals handicap.

The rains had softened field No. 2, and the special match scheduled there between Piping Rock and Great Neck, the latter to include F. A. Gill, was not played, but the teams had three periods on field No. 3.

The line-up for the open championship match was as follows:

Cooperstown—P. S. von Stade, C. C. Rumsey, C. P. Deadleston, M. Stevenson.

Meadow Brook—E. S. Reynal, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., F. P. Keene, Harrison Tweed.

Score—Copers town carried 4 goals, less ½ for penalties; net, 3½. Meadow Brook earned 4, lost 1 on penalties; net, 3.

NEW VEHICLES FOR LONDON CABMEN.

New vehicles known as horse taxicabs have appeared in the streets of London, to give employment to old cabmen who are physically unfit, or for other reasons, unable to pass the examinations required of drivers of motor taxis, and to give the old cab horses another chance for life. When the motor taxis came into existence most of the old horse cabs were driven from the streets, and cabmen who could not get places as motor drivers have been hard pushed to make a very poor living, while their horses, from lack of food and proper care, fell into such a pitiable condition that many of them had to be killed.

The new vehicle is fitted with a taximeter adjusted to a time charge, and it gives the horse drawn cab a chance to complete with the motor taxi in point of cost hire, at any rate, if not in speed. The association that is putting them out was formed for the purpose of giving relief to out-of-work drivers and their horses. Many of the old horses have been bought and killed, while others have been sent to the country to recuperate.

PERSONALS.

....Captain H. E. Bixby, who taught Mark Twain how to pilot a steamboat, was found dead in bed at his home in St. Louis. He was 86 years old. Twain paid Captain Bixby $500 for instruction.

....Winthrop Murray Crane has been unanimously re-elected as the Massachusetts member of the Republican national committee by the Republican state committee. The election was by acclamation.

....The will of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadeima, the artist, who died June 25, shows a gross estate of $300,000. He left, subject to a life interest for his two daughters, $50,000 to the Royal Academy, to found the Alma-Tadema Scholarship.

....The retirement from base ball, in which he became famous 30 years ago as player, of John Montgomery Ward, president of the Boston National Club, is announced. President Ward's financial interest in the club was bought by James E. Gaffney of New York, the principal owner.

....Governor Thomas R. Marshall has declined an offer of four of his friends to make up a fund to meet the expenses of his personal campaign as Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency. Instead he has arranged with a bank to borrow about $5,000 which, he estimates, will be enough to pay for his speechmaking tours and incidental items. "I never have been under obligations to any person for campaign funds and now is not the time to begin."

....Miss Harriet Evans, 74 years old, an inmate of the Harrison Home of Philadelphia, will sail for England in a few days to marry James Henry Montforce, son of a Devonshire squire, to whom she gave her heart more than 50 years ago. The marriage being opposed by the Montforce family, Miss Evans came to America, and the couple lost track of each other. Only recently the aged Montforce found where she was and wrote for her to return to England and keep the marriage promise.

THE BAND WAGON.

[Washington Star.]

The old band wagon hits a pace
It never knew of yore.
It hurries on from place to place,
'Midst a terrific roar,
With sundry cans of gasoline
To help it pull the load.
Occasionally one is seen
To flare up and explode.

So set the bell a-ringing,
And sound the horn so shrill.
The old band wagon's swinging,
And she's coasting down a hill!

Combustion's something fierce below;
We're sitting on the lid.
As we rush on we'd like to know
Just when she's going to skid.
The radiator starts to boil,
The steering gear is loose;
If she breaks down with all her toil,
We'll hitch her to a moose.

No longer is she freighted
With music sweetly keyed,
The old band wagon's gaited
For her biggest burst of speed.

FANCIES.

Percy—Will you marry me?

Penelope—Never.

Percy—Don't say that; let's submit the question to arbitration.

Daisy—Anna's been married six months and never baked a cake or batch of bread.

Kitty—Isn't it ideal to see a wife think so much of her husband?

DOGS FROM EVERYWHERE.
Show Promises to be Great Success With Larger Number of Entries Than Ever Before.

The Dog Show promises to be an even greater success than last years. The number of entries, 1,150, is the largest for a one-day show in the country.

Cups and trophies are now on exhibition near the Casino entrance. There are prizes for every breed, and with the exception of a few challenge cups all will be presented to the owners of the winning animals the afternoon of the show.

Dogs are coming from all over the country. Mrs. Poll of Bronxville has entered several Boston terriers. Mrs. Tyler Morse is coming from Westbury, Long Island, with sheep dogs and French poodles. Her Poodle, "Mlle. Topple," won the prize for the best in the show last year. Mrs. Hungerford of Bay Shore, Long Island, has entered several Daschunds. Mr. Thorndike and Mr. Wolcott of Boston will show their well known Irish and Airedale terriers.

Mr. Robert Goelet's bull terriers and West Highland white terriers are entered. Mrs. McGowan of Seaconnet will bring two West Highland white terriers, recently imported, and winners of many prizes in England and Scotland. Mrs. R. L. Beekman has entered her Scottish terriers and Mrs. Burke-Roche will show toy bull terriers.

TWELVE PAGES.

THE NEW YORK POLICE SCANDAL.

There are two branches of the New York police scandal. One is the question of the general efficiency of the force as a whole, regarding which there has been almost constant complaint since Judge Gaynor became mayor. The other is the corruption of the police and the protection of gamblers in consideration of a vast blackmail.

Regarding the latter Mr. Baker, who was commissioner of police during the last part of the McClellan and the early part of the Gaynor administration, says that no man, even if honest to begin with, can remain honest in the face of such temptations as are pressed upon a man in Lieutenant Becker's place. It was Gaynor who created the gambling squad, with a head responsible only to the commissioner. He thought that would eliminate some of the occasions for grafting or some of the means of concealing it, but it gave one man enormous power, not checked by the activities of his colleagues or the supervision of superiors, for there was no one between him and the commissioner. The results have certainly been disastrous and Baker thinks nothing else could have been expected.

In regard to the other branch of the scandal there is considerable reason to believe that the action of Judge Gaynor in the case of the Duffy boy, which is really the reason he was nominated for mayor; his reprimands of policemen for making arrests on what he deemed insufficient grounds, his dismissal of the plain clothes force and his repeated remarks about the liberty of the citizen have discouraged and in some measure even demoralized the police and encouraged crooks of all sorts to believe that New York was a pretty safe place for them. This is the opinion of Baker, of a deputy commissioner who resigned on account of it, some of the magistrates and some of the citizens.

There is a common and perhaps a general opinion that the mayor's solicitude about the liberty of the citizen has not resulted in any advantage to honest, industrious and law-abiding people, but has protected purveyors of vice and adepts in crime by restraining police interference with them, their haunts and their practices. As a legal theory the mayor's opinion is excellent. As a rule for the management of the police in a great city it seems to lack some elements of practical efficiency.

THE ENGLISH TITANIC VERDICT.

Of course on the main issues there was no room for difference of opinion regarding the causes of the disaster to the Titanic, and the conclusions of Senator Smith and of Lord Mersey must be in substantial accord. The steamer was lost because she was running at a high speed in the presence of icebergs, and the sacrifice of life was due to the lack of boats. On the latter point Lord Mersey remarks only indirectly but as he advises a larger supply of boats his conclusion is unmistakable.

Captain Smith is dead and decency requires that he should be treated as lightly as possible, but as J. Bruce Ismay is not dead there has been a disposition on this side of the ocean—not entirely absent on the other—to discuss him with some frankness. He was not the master of the vessel, but as presideng of the owning company, making the trip to observe the working of the vessel, he was unquestionably in a position of influence not occupied by any other passenger.

Gibson Bowles, formerly a member of Parliament and a well known authority on shipping matters, remarks of Lord Mersey's deliverance that he is not convinced that Captain Smith did not give the despatch regarding icebergs to Ismay as an invitation for any suggestion from him regarding the speed or course. This is a natural suspicion. Certainly the despatch was not shown to any other passenger, and the reason for this is obvious. Ismay made no suggestion and the speed and course were unchanged.

While Lord Mersey treats this speed as palliated by the general practice, the fact is that on the night when the Titanic was lost one steamer turned back from the ice encountered and two stopped, so that the habit of driving at full speed through an ice field is not universal by any means. If Smith's death is a reason for touching lightly on his action in this matter, it is no reason for ignoring the non-action of the president of the owning company. Lord Mersey assumes that Ismay has been criticised for not going down with the ship. There has been some of that, but it has been only secondary and incidental. The gravamen of the complaint about him is that he encouraged Captain Smith to maintain his speed and course with full knowledge of the presence of icebergs.

REFORMING WOMEN'S DRESS.

It is a difficult task which some people in the West have set themselves, according to reports, in an attempt to reform women's clothes on the ground that they are extremely dangerous to both health and morals. Women are exceedingly independent about their dress and generally wear about what they desire, without regard to what other women or mere men think about the styles and nature of their garments. It is true that they are the slaves of fashion to a large degree, but at the same time they have a definite idea as to what they wish to wear, and wear it. It is also true that women dress to please men—that is, in a way which they believe will please them—but they seldom ask in advance the opinion of the men as to the kind of clothes which will please them or the manner in which they shall be worn in order to accomplish that result. They seem to have an intuitive knowledge as to what men will like as regards women's clothes, and generally find that what they have adopted has the result they are seeking and the men are forced to acknowledge, even if some of them criticise, that women's garments are attractive and pleasing to the eye.

Just what these Western people propose to do and in what way their reforms are to be brought about is not revealed, but they might as well decide at the beginning that if they are going to be successful they must in some way cause all women to change their style of garments. A few can never cause a change of fashions, and not many will adopt any sort of costume which has not received the endorsement of Dame Fashion. It is evident, therefore, that this crusade which is announced as soon to be begun will be no fight one and that those who attempt it will have a big fight on their hands, with little hope of success. The women themselves will undoubtedly have something to say about the movement and if the attempt is to be accomplished by law the would-be reformers of the West are making their fight in the wrong section of the country. There are five states out there where the women vote and exert a strong influence in politics, and few movements will bring them out to the polls or lead them to use their political influence as would anything pertaining to their clothes and an effort to force them to change the character of their garments against their will.

As a matter of fact, many attempts have been made at different times to lead women voluntarily to change the style of their clothing, but with little success. The argument has been used for years that parts of the costume of women are injurious to health, but that has had practically no influence and they have continued to wear those garments in the same way, no attention being paid to the warnings that they cause unhealthy conditions and result often in suffering and disease. Attempts have been made, too, to bring to the attention of women the fact that some of the styles adopted by them were not entirely modest and should be changed in the interests of the public morals, but these statements have had about as much effect as those in the interests of the health of the individual. Women think they know where the dividing line lies between what is modest and what is not, and they do not think the average woman crosses that line in the style of dress she adopts, though there may be a few who go transgress.

There is a good deal of truth in these statements on the part of women, for there are comparatively few who, in their dress, offend seriously against the laws of either health or modesty, and these few need not be used as an argument against the entire sex and made the ground for a crusade for a reform. For the most part women dress more comfortably and sensibly than men, and so far as the effort to please men by the style of their garments is concerned it may well be believed that an attempt to change their mode of dress on that score will fall flat, for it will be opposed by both the women who desire to please and the men who like to be pleased. There are plenty of other things which need remedying more than women's clothes, and the would-be reformers of the West might better turn their attention to some of those and leave the women to attend themselves to the kind and style of clothing they shall wear, so long as it does not violate the laws of decency.

The situation in Congress on the tariff bills has shifted again. Last week the regular and progressive Republicans in the Senate agreed upon amendments and substitutes for the House measures, which the latter body would not accept. Now comes the report of the formation of a Democratic-Progressive-Republican coalition in the Senate and a tentative agreement between the leaders of both bodies to provide speedy action on some of the pending tariff measures. Agreements are said to be in sight on the iron and steel revision, the wool revision and the excise tax bills. No agreement, however, is expected on the sugar tariff bill. It is said that little trouble is anticipated in carrying out the arrangement.

England is much displeased at the success of the American athletes and the failure of her own representatives at the recent Olympic games at Stockholm, and is determined to make a better showing at the next Olympiad in Berlin, four years hence. To help in this endeavor the Athletic Advisory Club has voted to raise $150,000 to put a team in the field in 1916 which will give England and its colonies a better standing. The English are dissatisfied because it is believed that their representatives at Stockholm were not properly trained and did not do as well as they might have done, but it is also evident that the people care more that they were beaten by Americans than for anything else.

President Taft may send a message to Congress urging immediate legislation on the Panama canal. Unless action is taken at this session to provide for the operation of the canal the President and Secretary of War believe it will be practically impossible for the army engineers to keep their promise and open the big ditch to the ships of the world next year. The Senate is inclined to set aside the canal bill at every opportunity, and it is quite evident that its members are not anxious to commit themselves on the free ship question.

The refusal of many progressive Republicans to leave the fold and go over to the third-party movement is causing the Roosevelt leaders considerable anxiety. A prominent Republican in Indiana has created much favorable comment by saying: "The new party seems to be carrying out the bull moose idea. This is that there can be but one bull in the herd and the rest must be cows and calves."

Captain H. E. Bixby, whose death is announced, was a notable character. He was a pilot on the old Mississippi river, instructor of Mark Twain in river navigation and hero of many of Twain's stories of steamboating. It is said that while employed on Captain Bixby's boat Mr. Clemens first heard the expression, "By the mark, twain," and adopted the last two words as his pen name.

President Taft, his friends say, will oppose any project of the Roosevelt leaders to bring about a compromise in Ohio and permit even a partial fusion of the regular and progressive Republicans on the state ticket. The President is right. There should be no compromise. It is better for the Republican party to make the fight on a straight ticket, even if it should be defeated.

Upon the basis that one fly is capable of producing a million, more or less, descendants in a single season, some ready reckoner, having plenty of time, may amuse himself by computing the probable fly population of Newport had not the three bushels of the pests been destroyed by the efforts of the extermination committee.

The price of meats has reached a new high record in Chicago, beef selling for $9.85 a hundred weight in the carcass, and it is expected that $10 beef will be found in next week's quotations. The prices, it is said, show no signs of decreasing. The wholesalers say "the scarcity of cattle and the increase of population are responsible for the advance".

With the Titanic disaster still fresh in memory, the White Star line has decided to make such alterations as experience and the findings of the investigating commission suggest in the Gigantic, the sister ship of the Titanic, now being built at Belfast. What less could it do?

The Progressives in Pennsylvania have pre-empted the name Washington Party as the title under which they will go to the polls, and it is understood that that designation will be extended to other states for the Roosevelt campaign. Its fitness is hardly self-evident.

Another helpful rain in the night.

SMALLER BANK NOTES.

The size of all United States currency and national bank notes probably will be reduced by one-third and their designs revolutionized by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, for the sake of economy to the government, convenience to the public and safety against counterfeiting. This decision practically has been reached by the Secretary.

It is proposed to make the dimensions 6 by 2½ inches. The paper money now in circulation measures 7.28 and 3.04 inches. The designs of all paper money—United States notes and certificates and national bank notes—would be systematized and made uniform for every denomination.

This move is expected to save the government about $900,000 annually and the national banks, which pay for the plates for their notes and part of the cost of redemption, about $200,000. The economies would be effected in steel for the plates, in paper and in labor.

Pawtucket Submits to Cumberland Contract to Supply Water.

Accepts a Call to North Scituate Free Baptist Church—Admitted to Practice Medicine.

A contract for supplying water to Cumberland by Pawtucket for the next 10 years has been submitted to the Cumberland town council by the joint standing committee on water of the Pawtucket city council. By its terms Pawtucket agrees to extend at its own expense the pipes connected with its water works into and through the several streets and highways of Cumberland beyond the points and places where its pipes are now laid, furnish all the necessary appurtenances and keep the pipes in repair. The contract is for the purpose of furnishing Cumberland residents with water and also to supply water for fire purposes, drinking fountains and standpipes. These terms are provisional upon an agreement that Pawtucket shall not be bound to make such extensions unless it is first made to appear that a return at the rate of seven per cent per annum upon the cost of such extension can be derived.

Rev. Gilbert B. Cutler, formerly of Boston and now of Providence, has accepted a call to the Free Baptist Church, North Scituate, and will begin his pastoral labors in September. He was at Eden Park and other places and has recently refused a pulpit with larger salary than he will receive at North Scituate. Rev. Mr. Cutler was born in East Machias, Maine, where, after finishing at Washington Academy, he decided to follow the sea, and visited in the 10 years of his sailor life ports in Europe, Africa, Australia, the East and West Indies and South America. He was converted while sailing as first mate of a vessel on the Great Lakes, and under private instructors pursued a course of study. His advance was so rapid that in two years he was ordained. He has had successful pastorates in Michigan, New Haven, Georgiaville, Tiverton and Greenville, this state, and was also a chaplain at the New York navy yard during the Spanish war. He has formed three churches during his ministry.

Eight persons, two of whom are women, successfully passed the recent examinations before the State Board of Health for admission to the practice of medicine in Rhode Island. The examinations were taken by 15 applicants. Dr. Gardner T. Swarts, secretary of the board, announced the names of the successful applicants as follows: Edward W. Burt, Boston University, 1900, of Westport, Mass.; William Thomas Veal, Jefferson Medical College, 1912, of Westerly; Edgar Joseph Donbar, Tufts College, 1912, of Boston; Herbert Elisha Harris, Harvard, 1912, of Providence; Hattie Greenblatt, Tufts, 1912, of Providence; Adella Frances Low, Boston University, 1912, of Providence; Anthony Converse, Tufts, 1912, of Providence; Donald Joseph Kiley, Jr., Tufts, 1912, and Interne at St. Joseph's Hospital, Providence.

The Seventh Rhode Island Volunteer Veteran Association observed the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the regiment Thursday, and the fortieth annual reunion of the surviving comrades at Quonsnapaug-on-the-Pawtuxet, 36 answering to the roll-call. Headquarters were established in Providence at 9 o'clock, and 20 minutes later the comrades were on their way to the scene of the reunion on a special car. On arrival at the destination the annual business meeting was held, officers elected and committee reports read.

Tuberculosis day will be observed this year by the churches in Rhode Island and throughout the rest of the country Sunday, October 27, according to the announcement by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Churches and religious societies, to the number of at least 100,000, are being urged to give special attention to the prevention of tuberculosis on that Sunday, or on some day during the week preceding or the week following that date.

PORTSMOUTH.

Washington Park Yacht Club Events—Picnic of Christian Church Sunday School.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The yacht, speed boat, swimming and rowing races held by the Washington Park Yacht Club in the basin were interesting and many members of the local club were present to enjoy them. Only the visiting club took part in the yacht races, but the two handsome cups presented to the winners were given by the Fall River Yacht Club. In all the other races, in which local people took a part, the cups were given by Commodore Duncan Turner of the Washington Park Club.

One of the events was a handicap motor boat race between W. Fawcett's Tuck and Gardner Airlie's Nan. The finish was so close that the figures have been submitted to an expert and the result left for a later decision. The Tuck is a faster boat than the Nan, but handicaps largely affected the conclusion. The great difference in the speeds of the boat robbed the race of interest to the spectators.

The greatest fun was found in the skiff races, single and double-oared, by sons of members of both clubs. In the single-oared race Hollis Chace ran into the boat rowed by "Dink" Rivers and the entanglement affected all the rowers. In the double oars were fouled so frequently that Airlie and Fawcett won without difficulty.

The course of the yachts was triangular, and the race was won by the Beauchers and Pioneer.

A swimming race from the float around Commodore Turner's yacht and return was won by Daniel Carragher, with Owen Eagan second.

The latter was also winner in the single-oared skiff race and A. Turner, Jr., second. In the double-oared race Airlie and Fawcett were first, Field and Small second.

Commodore Turner presented a bronze loving cup to the winner of the speed boat race and silver cups to the winners of each of the other events, including two to the double-oared boat winners.

The club left for Wickford Thursday morning.

The Sunday School of the Christian Church and congregation held its annual picnic at Morton Park and the Newport beach Thursday. Taking a special car which left Mint Water switch at 9 o'clock, they rode to Stone Bridge, and returning left the switch at 10 o'clock for Newport. At Morton Park their picnic dinner was eaten, which included ice cream and lemonade. The afternoon was spent at the beach, the return beginning at 5:30 and again including a ride to Stone Bridge.

The Island Park Whist Club met with Mrs. George D. Park this week. Six tables were played on the piazza, which was decorated with Japanese lanterns and pennants of the various colleges represented. The women's first prize was taken by Miss Carolyn Donaldson, a china pin tray; the men's first prize was a pair of gold cuff links, won by Mr. Raymond Newton. Miss Edith Lawton and Mr. Lawrence Gordon took the consolations, a pig bank and a monkey on a stick. A collation was served.

Mr. Sullivan, who has been at Black Point Farm as head farmer, has gone to Detroit, with his family.

A swimming race from Island Park to Hen Island, the distance being a mile, for a silver cup offered by Mr. Benjamin B. Barker, created considerable excitement. The contestants were Lester Morton, Sidney Smoot and Irving Newkirk, the last named winning.

Mr. John M. K. Thomas of Brooklyn is spending three weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Sherman at their home on Middle road.

Mrs. James F. Marden of Providence is visiting her father, Mr. Gardner T. Sherman, and family.

Rev. Edward Hallett Macy and his niece, Ruth, have been guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert A. Sisson on Gypson lane.

Miss Elizabeth Bullinjer of Philadelphia, who has been visiting Miss Etta M. Sherman, has also been guest of Rev. and Mrs. Henry McCrone of St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Henry McCrone of Amesbury, Mass., and her brother, Mr. Howard B. Bullinjer at Hyde Park.

Mr. William P. Macomber of Fairhaven has been guest of his nephew, Mr. Isaac B. Macomber, for a few days.

Mrs. James Lawrence and her son, James, Jr., of Riverpoint, are spending a week as guests of Mrs. Charles Proctor.

WHERE BATHING IS THE RAGE.

[Metropolitan.]

Perhaps if there is one feature in which Ostende is preeminent it is the bathing, for nowhere is it pursued with such zest or by such numbers. From sunrise to sunset a constant stream of bathers find their way to the Plage and the sea is never freed for a moment from their dipping forms. By 11 o'clock in the morning every one of the hundreds of bathing machines is drawn out in the water, while on the sands hundreds of others would-be bathers impatiently await the return of the bathing machines from the sea, often rushing out up to their knees in the water to place their bathing suits and towels on the steps of the incoming little wheeled houses and thus establish their prior claim to them when they reach the dry sands and discharge their occupants.

The costumes furnished with the bathing machines are all alike, made in one piece of coarse red and white striped cotton, and are worn indiscriminately by men and women alike. But, as they are as little becoming as our ordinary coarse prison garb, the women who bathe habitually provide themselves with less trying, although no more elaborate single piece garments of woven black silk, which cling to them closer than the proverbial brother.

There is little swimming done at Ostende, and as far as the majority of bathers there are concerned the art of natation might be entirely unknown. The beach is long and shallow and so affords a most excellent promenade for the bathers who walk up and down in water varying from ankle deep to waist deep, relieving their promenade from time to time by throwing about and chasing brightly painted rubber balls, laughing and screaming like children at the efforts made to catch them by their fellow bathers.

If any woman ever swam at Ostende I never saw her do so. Should any be so brave as even to express a desire to swim, and lower her shoulders into the water, she would be so surrounded and supported in the treacherous element by a group of kindly, self-constituted life savers and swimming instructors as to effectually prevent her from learning even the rudimentary principles of keeping afloat.

MR. CLEWS'S CONDOLENCE.

His Cablegram of Sympathy on the Death of the Mikado of Japan Receives Prompt Reply.

On being informed of the death of the Mikado of Japan Mr. Henry Clews sent from Newport the following cablegram of sympathy:

"July 29, 1912. To Empress Japan, Tokio: Accept my deep sympathy in your bereavement. The whole world mourns with you. Henry Clews."

In reply he has received the following answer:

"July 31, 1912. Mr. Henry Clews, New York: Having conveyed your sympathetic telegram to Her Majesty, I was commanded to express Her Majesty's best thanks. Count Kagawa, Grand Master of the Household of Her Majesty, the Empress Dowager."

WINNERS IN THE BRIDGE WHIST SERIES.

At the Miantonomi Tennis Club Thursday afternoon the bridge whist tournament which has been in progress during the past five weeks was concluded and the prizes were awarded. Miss Katherine P. Manchester, who made an aggregate of 2,356 points, received the first, a blue silk parasol; Miss A. Katherine Jenkins, with 2,329 points, took the second, a gold hat pin, and Miss Catherine W. Cottrell, with 1,360 points, the third, a pair of white kid gloves. Another tournament will be started soon.

CAPITAL PRIZE WINNERS AT ST. AUGUSTIN'S FAIR.

St. Augustin's fair closed Thursday night, when a large crowd was present to learn the winners of the capital prizes. Four of these were announced. Mr. M. E. Murphy of "Elm Court" won the building lot. Patrolman Edward Sullivan the diamond ring, Miss Margaret Baker the lady's gold watch, and John McGough of Boss court was the winner in the boy's contest for the gold watch. The fair has been a decided success, owing to the hard work of the members of the parish.

THE YACHTSMEN AT MARBLEHEAD.

News has been received from Messrs. Hurst, Wetherill and Brewster, who left here last week for Marblehead. They made an early start and left Oak Bluffs at 3:30 Sunday morning, and were at Marblehead at 5 Monday morning. There was such a breeze that at times the Arrow II had two reefs in. It took the Dorothy, another of the 18-footers, four days to make the trip. The Skeet, which went down under tow, is making it by easy stages. Tuesday she was at Provincetown and left Wednesday for Gloucester.

NOTES FROM THE BEACH.

A portion of the east side of the dance hall at the beach has been moved out and the enlarged band stand moved to that side. This is being roofed over, and by this means a stand is provided which will permit the big band to play for dancing, and at the same time be sufficiently out of doors so that the music can be heard with pleasure from the board walk or on the sand back of the walk. By making this change it is expected that much of the roar of the beach, which has been one of the difficulties met, will be overcome.

A feature of the band hop will be a division of the musicians, so that there will be continuous music for dancing. This, too, should appease the appetite of those who go simply to listen.

This evening the Lappin Store employes have planned for a good time, going to the beach and taking in the various amusements as one body. It is predicted that it will be a real good time, particularly when they make their attack on the merry-go-round.

This afternoon the beach received a brief call from the excursionists from New London, who would remain longer on their stop in the city were not of limited duration.

—Mr. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., arrived today in steam yacht Tarantula.

—Mr. C. Gouverneur Hoffman of New York is guest of Mr. Stewart Dunbar at "Bonniecrest."

—Fishing boat Spray is being inspected at the shipyard, where oyster boat Luzerne Ludington is hauled out.

—Dr. Lucian Guy Heneberger of Washington is at the Muenchinger-King for the remainder of the week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart Watts of Philadelphia are guests of Federal Inspector and Mrs. F. S. Nash.

—The license commissioners had an uneventful session Thursday evening. It was the monthly meeting, with nothing to do.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Breese of New York (Miss Julia Kean Fish) are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at "Crossways".

—Mr. Grosvenor's 15-footer Eaglet is out at Williams & Manchester's and to have lockers put in. This is an innovation in 15-footers.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. T. Baldwin, Miss Cromwell and Miss Benedict of New York are guests of Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James at "Pinson Hill House."

—There was a vehicular accident at the Parade corner Thursday afternoon. When the wagon had reached that point a wheel which had been doing duty all week without a nut failed to do so. It slipped off, and so did the driver.

—The walk in front of St. Augustin's church has been completed and things generally are in readiness for the dedication Sunday morning. It is understood that the new walk was a gift from a friend who is not in the parish.

—Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Sherman of Springfield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopkins Redman and Robert H. Putnam of New York, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hall of Meriden, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. A. Davis of Boston, J. D. Adair of Philadelphia and H. B. Gray of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., are registered at the Berry House.

—The women of the First Presbyterian Church held their annual lawn party Thursday afternoon on the lot in the rear of the church. The principal booths were arranged in the centre of the grounds, including the cake, candy, fancy and flower tables. In the Sunday School room a cold meat supper was served at three large tables.

—Casino registers today include Adrian Iselin, jr., Herbert Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. T. Baldwin, Miss Cromwell, Miss Benedict, C. Gouverneur Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith, Albrecht von Schroeder, A. Tchaschnikoff, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Breese, Mrs. Francis S. Higginson and Captain and Mme. D. I. Vassilieff.

COLONEL WILLIAM H. COFFIN.

Commander of the Artillery District of Narragansett Dies in Wisconsin.

Had Been at Fort Adams Since November, 1909, and Recently in Poor Health.

Captain Thomas F. Dwyer at Fort Adams received news this morning of the death Thursday night of Colonel William H. Coffin, U. S. A., commanding the Artillery District of Narragansett, at Rockport, Wis. The colonel, who had been in poor health for some time, had made several visits to New York and Boston to consult specialists regarding his ailment, and a few weeks ago went west to enter the celebrated hospital under the direction of the Mayo brothers. Early in the week information was received here that he had submitted to an operation and it was thought he would recover. He was born in 1858, in 1873 he was made his duties at Fort Adams. No particulars of his death have been received, the telegram, which came from his sister, Mrs. Crain, stating simply that Colonel Coffin died during the night.

Colonel Coffin had been in command of Fort Adams and the Artillery District of Narragansett since November, 1909, succeeding Colonel Walter Howe. He was born in the District of Columbia August 26, 1851, and was appointed a cadet to the Military Academy September 1, 1869. In 1873 he was made a second lieutenant in the Fifth artillery, first lieutenant in 1882, captain in the Sixth artillery in 1898, and major in the artillery corps in 1902. He was detailed as assistant adjutant general in 1904, promoted to lieutenant colonel in the artillery corps in 1907 and reached the grade of colonel, coast artillery corps, October 10, 1908. He was graduated from the Artillery School in 1875.

During his command at Fort Adams he had been active in developing the efficiency of the companies and the fortifications in the district. During his absence Major Joseph P. Tracy has been in command until recently, when he was ordered away on special duty, and Captain Thomas F. Dwyer has been in command of the fort and the district.

It is expected that the body of Colonel Coffin will be brought East and interred in Arlington cemetery. His wife and sister were with him at the time of his death.

DOWN-TOWN STORE ENTERED.

Break Probably Made by Boys—Gang Shooting Crap Caught by the Police.

The grocery store of Alexander R. O'Hanley on lower Thames street was broken into Thursday night or very early this morning, entrance being effected through the transom over the door. Mr. O'Hanley was at the St. Augustin's bazaar and it was late when he passed by the shop, about 2:40. He then found that it had been entered. His son, who left earlier, saw two boys standing at the doorway of the shop about 12:15. He thought nothing of it at the time, as he supposed they were boys from up town who had been at the fair. They did not belong down town. Mr. O'Hanley found that $1.30 had been taken from the cash drawer. The police found a couple of strangers down town and questioned them, but had no reason for arresting them. They were probably the ones who did the entering.

An attempt was made Wednesday night, it is reported, to enter the bakery of J. B. Pendergress, on Oak street, but it was not successful, the thieves being frightened by the bakers working near by.

The patrol went Thursday night to the Griswold cottage, opposite Touro Park, where it was stated that a gang had congregated. Sergeant Leary and Officers Kain and Barker were in the party. They found some young fellows shooting crap and took in two of them. Two others reported at the police station this morning. They agreed that they were shooting crap and the judge told them he would let them go, but if there was another complaint they would be held as common gamblers. When the police arrived there was $10 and some change in sight, but one of the men grabbed the ten and another the loose change, and then there was no money in sight. The party was made up of automobile guides whiling away the time and redistributing the revenues of the day.

There was an unexpected incident at the police station at 12:15 this morning. An ensign of the navy attempted to break a pane of glass in the station house window as he passed down the wharf toward the Government Landing. He will probably report this afternoon.

A case of non-support was before the court his morning. The man pleaded not guilty.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News]

There was a concert at the Casino Thursday evening, Mrs. Charles Henry Davis receiving for the governors, and an informal hop at the Gardner House. The hop on board the New Jersey was largely attended by the summer colony. There was a dancing party on board the Utah today.

Mrs. Fletcher, wife of Rear Admiral F. F. Fletcher, is expected at the Bay Voyage Hotel this week. Medical Director and Mrs. Winslow of Boston arrived at the Bay View Thursday.

A number of polo ponies for the game in Newport this afternoon crossed the island from Narragansett this morning.

Mr. A. C. Knowles has commenced a cottage on Shoreby Hill for Mrs. Jeffers of Annapolis, Md.

Mr. Arnold Tefft of Shawomet, Mass., is guest of his grandfather, Mr. E. N. Tefft, on Cole street.

Mr. Leon Watson of Detroit is visiting relatives at the Carr homestead.

A quantity of lumber was landed on Ferry wharf this morning by the Archer, from Fall River.

The thunderstorm which passed over the island early this morning was not so severe, or the rainfall so heavy as Wednesday morning's.

MORE THUNDER AND RAIN.

There was more thunder and lightning, and more rain, Thursday night and this morning. Between 6 and 7 in the evening lightning could be seen to the east and west, showing that two distinct storms were passing by, with Newport about midway between them. There was thunder and lightning closer by early this morning.

The rain Thursday, after 6 a. m. and including what fell during the night, totalled .06 of an inch at the Water Works pumping station, making the total fall for the late storm 1.01 inches. This will do a great deal of good to grass and all growing things. The ground was dry everywhere and needed rain very much, and it had a good wetting.

AT THE PLAYGROUNDS.

Athletic Meet Pulled Off—Triangular Contest Between Lonthal, Cranston and Basin Arranged.

It has been rather dull at the playgrounds until today, when the Basin boys pulled off an athletic meet. In order to announce the fact that there was something unusual going on, the big playground banner, given two years ago by Captain Joseph P. Cotton, was hoisted. In 1910 the Basin boys won this banner and for some reason it was not contested for last year, so that it is still the property of the Basin grounds. On other days, when there is nothing out of the ordinary, the American flag is kept flying from the mast, but it is reported that the boys at Lonthal are going to make a determined effort to wrest the banner from the present holders. This contest will take place next week, probably Friday, in a triangular meet between Lonthal, Cranston and the Basin.

For the events pulled off at the Basin this morning Charles Underwood and Morton Lee were in charge, assisted by Superintendent Louis R. Chase.

The running high jump was divided into two classes. In class A. Benedivenga was first, distance 3 feet 6 inches; Dimini Vitt was second, 3 feet 4 inches; D. Walsh third, 3 feet 3 inches.

In class B John Dwyer was first, four feet, and William Mahoney second, 3 feet 9 inches.

Running broad jump—Class A, D. Vitt, 10 feet 4 inches; Ray Norbury, 9 feet; Federella, 8 feet 9 inches.

Running broad jump—Class B, Frank Benedivenga, 11 feet 9 inches; William Mahoney, 11 feet 3 inches; John Dwyer, 10 feet, 4 inches.

Standing broad jump—Class A, D. Vitt, 6 feet 3 inches; Ray Norbury, 6 feet 1 inch; L. Benedivenga, 5 feet 6½ inches.

Standing broad jump—Class B, F. Benedivenga, 11 feet 9 inches; William Mahoney, 11 feet 3 inches; John Dwyer, 10 feet 4 inches.

50-yard dash—Richard Piper, time 50 seconds; Frank Vitt, second; Gallio Benedivenga, third.

Putting the shot—O'Leary first, 25 feet; T. Sullivan second, 23 feet 7 inches; W. Intaglia third, 23 feet 6 inches.

NOT MANY FISH.

There were some mackerel and swordfish in Thursday. The Hester of New Bedford had eight barrels of mackerel and two swordfish, the Priscilla, Captain Jim Kelley, two swordfish; the Clara T., Captain Luth, four barrels of mackerel and four swordfish; the T. B. Congdon, Captain Petersen, seven of mackerel and four swordfish, and the Hawk II swordfish. There was nothing in the trapping line, other than that C. B. Anderson is putting in a trap.

SAVING SEAGULLS AND TERNS.

Egrets Increasing Under Protection of Audubon Societies and Sale of Plumage Stopped.

[Edward Howe Forbush, New England Agent national Association of Audubon Societies.]

Twenty years ago the gulls and terns of the Atlantic sea-board were in imminent danger of extinction by the milliners' agents. Hundreds of thousands of these birds had been slaughtered in the breeding season and some species had almost disappeared. Mr. Abbot H. Thayer started a subscription fund to pay wardens to protect the birds during the breeding season, and then the national Association of Audubon Societies took over the work. Under the care of this organization the birds have increased wonderfully in numbers. When the work was begun there were on the New England coast only about 20 pairs of laughing gulls which bred on Muskeget Island. Now there are more than a thousand there and they are spreading along the coast to the gulf of Maine. The increase of the herring gulls and the terns under this protection has been phenomenal. Even the least tern or sea swallow, which was nearing extinction in the East, is increasing.

At the beginning a strenuous attempt was made to save the herons and especially the white egrets. Egrets formerly were scattered through the United States in large numbers in all suitable localities from the Hudson river to Oregon and from Florida to California. The efforts made to protect them came so late that notwithstanding all that could be done to save them they continued to decrease until about three years ago William Dutcher, president of the national Association of Audubon Societies, ... leaned to the belief that nothing could save them from extermination. The plume hunters had killed three wardens, "shot out" the heronries that the wardens were employed to protect and had managed to shoot up other heronries while the wardens were temporarily absent, until probably only a few hundred birds were left in the United States and these were scattered far and wide. When Mr. Dutcher was suddenly stricken down, Mr. T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the national association gave up the attempt to protect the egrets against the Indians and desperadoes of southern Florida, and he and the directors of the association turned their energies toward other states in the attempt to save the few birds left.

Thus far the enterprise has been successful beyond expectation. Last year about 5,000 egrets were known to be in existence and this year there are at least 5,000 in known colonies scattered through the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf states. Protection in the South Atlantic states was so successful last summer that from 12 to 20 egrets appeared in eastern Massachusetts and remained there the greater part of two months. No such number had been seen within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, and it is reported that a few are there again this year. The association has succeeded in securing the passage of laws in many states making the sale of the plumage of these birds illegal, and if this work is sustained financially the public sale of the plumes will be stopped throughout North America.

The egrets are fast being exterminated in every part of the world where they exist, and if they can be protected the time may come when the United States alone of all the countries in the world can boast of living examples of these beautiful species.

WETMORE AND McCALL.

Two Men Who Have Been Responsible for Furthering Art in the Senate and House.

[Washington Correspondence.]

As Senator Wetmore is retiring from the Senate, and should Congressman McCall fail to reach the Senate, Congress will after March 4 next lose two men who make a specialty of fine art and who have contributed much to the beautification of the capital and the capitol in an art way. Wetmore could be depended upon always to take care of art in the Senate and McCall in the House. Both were for a long time associated on the library committees of both houses, both being chairmen of the committees. As these have jurisdiction over all art matters figuring in Congressional legislation, they were able to advance many a worthy project or to give efficient burial to crude ideas.

For the Senate, Mr. Wetmore always took care to see that the busts of the Vice Presidents were worthy pieces of sculpture, and that they were properly placed. When presentations were to be made, in which taste was required, Senator Wetmore was selected to go to New York to make the selection.

To McCall is due the fact that the pediment to the House wing of the Capitol is to be sculptured. Elaborate work is now under way and the effect is going to be fine. Congress appropriated $75,000 for this work. To McCall is also due the fact that the Greenough statue of George Washington which used to face the east front of the Capitol, looking miserable in its lack of clothes when in summer the sun cast its torrid rays on it and in winter when the snowy blast howled around it, has been placed in a shady and warm space of the Smithsonian Institution. There it will live; it is a piece of marble sculpture deserving to live.

McCall has also been largely responsible for the movement for a new hall for the House of Representatives. For this, $300,000 has been appropriated and beautiful plans have been prepared, and will be put into execution whenever Congress shall be in recess long enough to permit the alterations to be made. But, as is now known, McCall will not be a member when the House sits in new and more beautiful surroundings. Neither Wetmore nor McCall leaves successors unless McCall is made Senator.

WAR VESSEL SOLD.

Navy Conveys to Venezuela Gunboat Isla de Cuba, Captured by Dewey in Manila Bay.

Probably for the first time in the history of the navy Acting Secretary Winthrop sold a fully equipped war vessel to a foreign government, when he conveyed to the Venezuelan minister, Senor Rojas, title to the gunboat Isla de Cuba, one of the vessels captured by Dewey in the battle of Manila bay.

Heretofore it has been the practice in the Navy Department to dismantle condemned warships, stripping them of their guns and equipment before selling them to individuals, so that without military value the price obtained has been small. In this case the Isla de Cuba is turned over to the Venezuelan minister with all her guns and equipment complete. The price paid is $57,250. The vessel is now at the Charleston navy yard, undergoing repairs which will cost the Venezuelan government $26,000. She is 192 feet long and about 1,030 tons displacement.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Chaplain L. P. Reynolds has been ordered to battleship Rhode Island.

—Mrs. Clayton S. Dixon is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Willoughby, at "The Chalet."

—Mr. Adrian Iselin, Jr., and the Misses Iselin are at the Pinard cottages for the remainder of the season.

—Mr. and Mrs. Delancey Astor Jay are guests of Mrs. Jay's parents, Commodore and Mrs. E. D. Morgan, at "Beacon Rock."

—Chaplain John A. Mills, Third cavalry, has been transferred to the coast artillery corps and ordered to Fort Greble, September 2.

—Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kountz of New York are visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, at the Carter cottage on Narragansett avenue.

—Captain Vassilieff, military attache of the Russian embassy, has joined the diplomatic corps here. With Mme. Vasalieff, he is at the Muenchinger-King.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Payne of the naval powder depot, Lake Denmark, N. J., are visiting Mrs. Payne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Littlefield, at The Manse, Bull street.

—Mr. Erasmus D. Clark of this city attended the fiftieth anniversary reunion of the Seventh Rhode Island Regiment Veteran Association at Browning's-on-the-Pawtuxet Thursday.

—Mrs. Robert Goelet, Mrs. Josephine I. Bruguiere, Mr. Louis S. Bruguiere and Messrs. Thomas and Frank R. Hitchcock were passengers on steamship Lusitania, which arrived today at New York from Europe.

—Captain D. P. Vasselieff, military attache of the Russian embassy, and Mme. Vasselieff; M. Andrew Kalnaschmi Koff of the Russian embassy, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bates, Miss Clara J. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Willis T. Hanson of New York are at the Muenchinger-King.

—Captain R. B. McCreecy, marine corps, formerly stationed at Coasters' Harbor Island, has been detached from the Mississippi and ordered to the Michigan. Second Lieutenant L. W. Williams has been detached from the Mississippi and ordered to the marine barracks, New York.

—For the past two evenings a religious service has been held in the bandstand on the Mall by colored workers. There were two men and three women. All had good voices and could sing well and the man who led in prayer had a voice which it was no trouble to hear.

—Senator R. Livingston Beeckman returned Thursday night from the Virginia Hot Springs and Washington. At the capital he attended the official notification of President Taft of his nomination as the Republican candidate for President, being the Rhode Island representative on the notification committee.

—Mr. Jeremiah P. Sullivan had a narrow escape from serious injury Thursday while riding his bicycle up Spring street. An ash wagon was going one way and an automobile overtook it. In some way Mr. Sullivan and his wheel were caught between the two and he was nearly run over by the ash wagon.

—The Oliver Hazard Perry monument on The Mall is sadly in need of an acid bath, to remove the stains which now cover it. Sculptor Turner looks with regret upon this condition of things and has tried to impress upon members of the Park Commission the necessity of giving such pieces of adornment a little attention now and then.

MACHINE MODE OUT OF VOGUE.

No Set of Men Can Now Arrange for Adjournment of Congress.

Tariff Reduction Certain—"The Star Spangled Banner" Not the Authorized National Air.

[Washington correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Time was when a few men of the Senate and still fewer men of the House could get together and fix up a scheme to wind up the business of a session of Congress and arrange a comparatively early adjournment. That day has passed and will not come again until machine methods are again in vogue in Congress. No set of men in the Senate can get their heads together now and engineer a business program which will close down the session. No doubt Murray Crane and Reed Smoot, Republicans, could formulate a program with Senator Bailey and Senator Simmons, Democrats, to obtain an adjournment. But those progressive Republicans might not agree, and they might propose matters which will compel the others to consider. In fact, the support of the progressives of certain Democratic propositions is just what has prolonged the session.

Whether they will believe it or not tariff reduction is something that is bound to come. If this Congress does not pass bills which the President will sign it is almost sure that the Congress to be elected next fall will pass bills which some President elected at the same time will sign. To make a pun, it is the "sign of the times." If President Taft should veto any of the tariff bills sent to him he will no doubt give satisfactory reasons for the act, satisfactory to the Republican regulars, but there seems to be a demand for reduction of the tariff which will go on until it has been accomplished.

We have no national air. We have a number of patriotic songs which seem to thrill the people and assist at national celebrations. It is true that army and navy officers, the cadets at West Point and the midshipmen at Annapolis all stand "at attention" when the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner." It is true that the same air is played and the audience rises when Mr. Taft appears at any place. By common consent we may say that "The Star Spangled Banner" is the national air or anthem. But there has been no authority for it. Congressman Foss of Illinois has introduced a bill to make the famous song the national air.

No doubt one reason why the session has been drawn out so long is because men like to hear their own voices and like to see page after page of what they have said printed in the Record. These men have talked so long that they have made the session long. "It's not the fellows who do the talking who suffer," remarked Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, "but the fellows who have to listen or stay here and make a quorum."

Congressman Heflin of Alabama had just made one of his political speeches crammed with poetry and stories which makes the House laugh, and Uncle Joe Cannon was moved to make a brief reply. "I always listen with great pleasure to the gentleman," said the Illinois veteran. "Great heavens, if he had turned to theology what a powerfully rousing individual he would have been at a camp meeting! I am reminded of a little story of the Sunday School teacher and a class of boys. She said 'Listen, little boys, and I will read you a story from the Bible,' and she turned to the proclamation of Goliath, who, full armored, pranced before the armies of the living God and made his defi. One bright eyed little boy in the class said: 'Skip that, madam. He's blowin'.'" And they laughed at Heflin as they had laughed at his fun a little while before.

Right here at the close of the session, with business crowding many members of both houses, we find one man to whom we can hand our hats as the busy individual. Senator Warren is just now one of the conferees on the sundry civil, the army, the agricultural, the Military Academy and will be a conferee on the general deficiency bill. Wouldn't people think it a shame to make one Senator work so hard as all that? However, it is well to remember that Warren not only accepts these burdens but reaches out for them. There is power in every one of them.

Notwithstanding the bitter criticism which has been caused by educating foreigners at our military and naval academies bills for the purpose continue to be pushed through Congress. There is a little social prestige gained in this sort of thing. Some man makes himself a place in a foreign legation by taking care of a foreigner at government expense. Like many other bills considered personal, they are allowed to go through as a matter of courtesy.

Arthur W. Dunn.

EXTENSION OF ENLISTMENT.

Change in Navy Regulations Will Permit Further Service at End of Four Years.

The draft of necessary changes in the navy regulations has been prepared in the Navy Department, to be ready upon the passage of the naval appropriation bill, to put into effect those of its provisions which relate to enlistments. As agreed upon in conference, the principal new feature permits a four-year enlistment to be so extended that a man may serve five, six, seven or eight years continuously in one unbroken term of service. By regulations these extensions are restricted so that only desirable men will be allowed to make them.

During the extension of an enlistment the pay and allowances will be the same as that of a re-enlisted man. Thus, if a man has extended his term for one year, making his whole term five years instead of four, he will receive the same monthly pay and allowances in the fifth year as if he had been discharged at the end of the fourth year and had immediately re-enlisted for four years. If he had extended his enlistment for two or three or four years his pay and allowances for all those years would be the same as in the fifth year. Upon discharge at the end of five, six, seven or eight years he is entitled to the same rights, privileges and benefits as a man discharged at the end of four years.

Economy may not always be wealth, but it can be depended on as a great preventive of poverty.—Puck.

HEAR TALK ON SNAKES.

Newport Boy Scouts Going to Little Compton on Next Camping Expedition.

At the meeting this week of the Newport Boy Scouts, held at the Industrial School, the interesting feature was a talk on the different kinds of snakes found in Rhode Island. The fact was brought out that the only poisonous snake in the state is the rattler, and it was interesting to know that the only spot where these reptiles are found is in Tiverton. It was also learned that the chief mission of all the snakes is to kill the field mice and rodents, which annually destroy an immense amount of grain. Mr. Gatzenmeier also explained the 15 varieties of non-poisonous snakes found in the state.

It was decided at this meeting to go to Little Compton on the next camping expedition, an invitation having been received to visit Adamsville, the home of former Scout Leader Harold C. Warden. There the Scouts will have access to a horse and to an automobile, and will take up the study of feeding, bridling and harnessing a horse, and running an automobile.

In a letter received this week by the scout master from a lady who chanced to be a visitor at Lawton's Valley recently she said: "I had the pleasure on Wednesday of meeting one of your advanced scouts in Lawton's Valley. He guided me and a friend of mine through the prettiest part of the valley and seemed a courteous and manly little fellow." The writer goes on to say that she is much interested in the Boy Scout movement and asks to know how they fared for the day, having read in the newspapers that they were to forage for their own provisions.

Rhode Island Commercial School
Your Opportunity
To enter the world of business fitted to take hold of even a subordinate position demands special training. This we give and more. Situated at Providence, with its Grand Trunk Railroad Terminal, numerous factories, mill and office, the steamships plying between this port and Europe, this school supplies these industries with stenographers, bookkeepers, accountants, secretaries and other competent workers. We assist our graduates to good positions.
Success
Our graduates are making splendid records in business everywhere. Write today for booklet, "Words From Those Who Know." It will tell them to acquire our training—if they have made a success in the business world as a result of its training—it is reasonable that what we have done for them we can do for you. Will you write for this book? Today?
Reasons
It differs from most other business schools. Its courses prepare young people to become not simply bookkeepers and stenographers, but gives them the general education that will enable them to advance to more important positions and eventually become the business leaders of the future. Careful attention paid to the selection of boarding accommodations for non-residents.

Orrine for Drink Habit
TRY IT AT OUR EXPENSE
We are in earnest when we ask you to give ORRINE a trial. You have nothing to risk and everything to gain, for your money will be returned, if after a trial, you fail to get results from ORRINE. This offer gives the wives and mothers of those who drink to excess an opportunity to try the ORRINE treatment. It is a very simple treatment, can be given in the home without publicity or loss of time from business, and at a small price.
ORRINE is prepared in two forms: No. 1, secret treatment, a powder; ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. Costs only $1.00 a box. Come in and talk over the matter with us. Ask for booklet.

FRECKLES.
Don't Hide Them with a Veil; Remove Them with the New Drug.
An eminent skin specialist recently discovered a new drug, othine—double strength, which is so uniformly successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Hall & Lyon Co., under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.
Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first night's use will show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. It is absolutely harmless and cannot injure the most tender skin.
Be sure to ask Hall & Lyon Co., for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

DISTRESSING CASE OF HIVES
"I retired one evening and after sleeping a couple of hours was awakened by a burning sensation all over the upper part of my body. It was just simply terrible and made it impossible for me to sleep the rest of that night, so I had to sit up all night changing my position every couple of minutes. As the hours went by it grew worse and soon I started to scratch myself. When daylight arrived I saw that my body was covered with large red marks. My face was also affected. I went to see a doctor. He told me I had the hives. He prescribed a medicine and also gave me some ointment.
"As the days went by I steadily grew worse, the marks changing from one part of my body to another. One evening by chance looking over the papers I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised. I immediately procured some Cuticura Ointment and applied it to my body. It seemed to ease me right away. I kept on using the Cuticura Ointment for a week and can say that it certainly was the finest preparation I had ever used. It completely cured me, and I have not been troubled since." (Signed) William Waterman, 120 E. 109th St., New York City, Dec. 8, 1910.

SENT TO THE FULL BENCH.

Two Supreme Court Justices Pass Up the Kansas Primary Law.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Action taken tonight by Justices van Devanter and Pitney of the United States Supreme Court insures the carrying of the struggle of the Taft and Roosevelt men to capture the electoral vote of Kansas to the highest tribunal in the land. The course of the Kansas state courts in refusing to order the names of eight Roosevelt candidates for Presidential electors stricken from the primary ballot was partially reversed by the two justices.

While these judges granted the application of the Taft men for a writ of error, directed to the Kansas courts, their decision does not constitute a final victory for the regular Republican organization. Under its terms the question of the right of the Roosevelt candidates to places on the primary ticket will be decided by the full bench of the Supreme Court at its next session in October. Meanwhile the Roosevelt men will have their names on the ballots at the primaries next Tuesday. The effect of today's decision is to leave the whole Kansas controversy suspended until October.

The proceedings before Justices van Devanter and Pitney assumed national importance in view of the broad question involved. This went outside the State political issues at stake and took up the matter of federal and state rights. Speaking broadly, this question was, whether the choice of Presidential electors was purely a state matter or whether it could be supervised by the federal courts; in other words, whether electors were state officers or federal officers.

In deciding not to interfere with the state primaries, Justices van Devanter and Pitney declared the only way not to injure either party was to let the primaries proceed with the Roosevelt candidates on the ticket and await the action of the full court.

It is understood that the court will decide the case before the general election in November and in time to keep the Roosevelt electors off the ballots in case the latter are defeated in the litigation.

The only possibility that the court will not have to decide the case is the remote one that none of the eight Roosevelt candidates will be successful at the primaries, August 6. In all there are 20 candidates for electors and 10 will be chosen. Twelve are declared Taft men.

In their meforandum accompanying their decision Justices van Devanter and Pitney said:

"Whether the rights asserted have a real basis in the constitution and law of the United States is the criterion by which we must determine whether the writ of error shall be allowed. Under the practice, if the justices to whom the application is made believe that the existence or non-existence of the rights asserted is involved in serious doubt, the writ of error should be allowed. We think that is the situation.

"The questions raised do not seem to be determined or settled by any previous decision of the United States Supreme Court. Some of the opinions of the court contain expressions which tend to sustain the contentions of the plaintiffs. Whether in view of the facts in the cases in which these expressions occur they should be regarded as deliberate and controlling ought not to be determined otherwise than by the court itself. It is conceded the questions are important and of large public concern and we have concluded that those who present them are fairly entitled to the judgment of the court, which, by the Constitution, is the final arbiter of all controversies arising under that instrument.

"In this situation we think a writ of error should be allowed. But as courts are reluctant to interfere with the ordinary course of elections, whether primary or otherwise, as the rights asserted are not clear, but doubtful, and as the injury and public inconvenience which would result from a supersedeas or any like order, if eventually the judgement of the State court should be affirmed, or the writ of error dismissed, would equal the injury which otherwise would ensue, we think no supersedeas or kindred order should be granted."

The argument occupied the whole day until 6 o'clock, and the two justices were in consultation more than two hours longer over their decision.

THE STRAIN ON RAILS.

Tension Marvelously Great From Big Driving Wheels of Trains Passing Over Them.

[Metropolitan.]

Have you an idea of the strain to which a steel rail is subjected daily? Let us consider one for a moment in the time of its greatest torture, and see. The Cannon Ball express is coming. It is drawn by two engines. The largest weighs 100 tons—77 tons of the weight are carried on the six driving wheels, which means almost 13 tons to a wheel. Thirteen tons of weight upon each wheel. That means 13 tons of weight impinging for a flying instant upon a rail surface perhaps no more than an inch square, and then, moving forward all the time, a succession of whirling blows from a 13-ton hammer.

If the train is going 30 miles an hour an imaginary square inch has but an imaginary square inch has but 1-528 part of a second in which to receive the blow, wince under it, distribute the terrible force of it through its elastic elements to the surrounding mass of the rail, brace itself to help distribute stresses that are being set up on adjacent surfaces, and zigzagging back and forth in all sorts of ways through the content of the rail, and then almost instantly lift its devoted head to receive the blow of the next driving wheel. If the train is going 60 miles an hour instead of 30, this all has to be received, withstood and passed on in one ten-hundred-and-fifty-sixth part of a second.

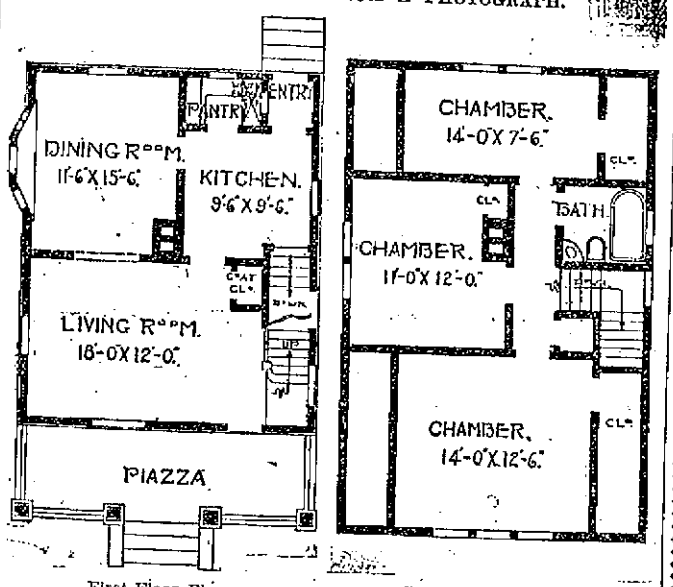
And yet this isn't all that is happening to the nerves of the rail. This is only taking account of the compression strains. There is another set of strains, for these big driving wheels are pulling the train. They have caught hold of the rails just as your hands grip the rope in a tug of war, and they take a fresh hold every fraction of a second. The tendency is to pull the top of the head off the business of the rail to stick together, head and web and flange, in every single and separate molecule with all the tenacity of which steel is capable. But we have stated only one-half the tension strain. This strain is resisting all the time; for while the huge drivers are pulling one part of the rail toward them, they are pushing another part away from them. This plucking and spurning, hauling and kicking, tension and compression goes on continuously. Complete release from compression to tension or back again takes place with every half turn of a driving wheel, and at a fearfully rapid rate. The marvel is that the rail is not ground to powder.

A CONVENIENT SMALL COTTAGE,

Design B 78, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

Copyright, 1912, by Glenn L. Saxton.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



First Floor Plan. Second Floor Plan.

This design for a small cottage has been built from many times. There is a good-sized living room nice dining room and kitchen. Combination stairway, with grade door. Georgia pine or birch finish or Washington fir in the first story, pine to paint in second story. Birch or maple floors throughout first and second story. Full basement under the entire house. Size 22 feet by 27 feet. First story nine feet, second story eight feet. The chambers in second story are good sized, large closet space and good bathroom.

A VICTORY FOR CANNON.

Democratic Majority Overturned on a Pension Question.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Former Speaker Cannon won a great victory in the House today, and by overturning a Democratic majority forced the retention in the sundry civil appropriation bill of a Senate amendment appropriating $1,300,000 for additional employes in the Pension Bureau. "Uncle Joe" displayed all his old-time fire and vigor, and achieved his victory despite the opposition of Representative Fitzgerald of the appropriation committee, who begged his followers to stand by the committee recommendations and disagree to all the Senate amendments.

Mr. Cannon fought for the retention of two other Senate amendments, but was defeated. These were the provisions appropriating $225,000 for the continuation of the tariff board, disagreed to by a vote of 145 to 109, and the increase of the fund for the enforcement of the anti-trust law from $200,000 to $300,000, lost 148 to 99.

All the other Senate amendments were rejected and the bill was sent to conference, with Representatives Fitzgerald of New York, Shirley of New York and Cannon of Illinois as managers for the House.

In spite of Mr. Fitzgerald's pleadings, 65 Democrats swung over to the Republican side, and the amendment was accepted, 165 to 88. One Republican, Kent of California, voted against his party. The announcement of the vote was the signal for a great demonstration on the Republican side.

TIPPING A BAVARIAN PRINCE.

In a letter to a friend G. G. Bain, who is making an automobile tour of Germany, relates the following adventure:

"I broke down just out of Munich today, after a good run from Nurnberg, and, finding things hopeless, sent a boy on a bicycle to a telephone station with a written message in German for transmission to the portier of a Munich hotel, asking him to send me a tow. Being doubtful of the boy's intelligence, I signalled a nice young man in a new car to stop. He was blond and well groomed and had a jolly laugh.

"Seeing the Royal Bavarian Auto Club button on his cap, I told him that I was a member of the Auto Club of America, and handed him my card. He [illegible] and presented me with his own, but stopped, which I thought odd. Incidentally, you should have seen me. I had come 115 miles in a hot sun, I had worked over my car, I was broiled, dirty, my face and hands stained with dust and grease, and I had a rowdy little traveling cap on the back of my head.

"The young man was very jolly. He spoke excellent English. I told him my troubles, and gave him minute instructions about telephoning, offering him 10 cents to pay for the message. He said he'd rather not, but I answered that I might not see him again, adding: 'I'll do as much for you when you come to America'—at which he laughed. There was a twinkle in his eye that I remembered after he had gone. I also recalled suddenly that he had a crown instead of a number on the back of his car.

"Presently he returned, and said it was all right. 'And' he continued, "if you need any assistance in Munich, call on the Royal Automobile Club. I am its president.' I thanked him and added that I was glad to see that he was a good sport and drove his own car. And so we parted.

"This evening I learn that the president of the Royal Bavarian Auto Club is Prince George of Bavaria."

BURDENS LIFTED

From Bristol Backs—Relief Proved by Lapse of Time.

Backache is a heavy burden;
Nervousness, dizziness, headache.
Rheumatic pain; urinary ills;
All wear one out.
Often effects of kidney weakness.
No use to cure the symptoms,
Relief is but temporary if the cause remains.
If it's the kidneys, cure the cause.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney ills—

Here's proof of their merit from this vicinity.

Mrs. Sanford, 27 Cottage St., Bristol, R. I., says: "We still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills highly and willingly confirm the public statement given in 1909. A member of our family suffered from backache and kidney trouble and Doan's Kidney Pills brought prompt relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Completion of Subways Greater Undertaking Than the Panama Canal.

Rosenthal Shooting Politically Significant—Automatic Newsboys—Homeless Husbands' Club.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Coincident with the report that the city's new subways are now about 15 per cent completed, New Yorkers have suddenly been made aware of the fact that this billion-dollar system, as it will be when finished, is entitled to be known as the world's biggest undertaking. Never since the beginning of history has such a work been attempted or such an amount spent in an equal area. Some idea of its vastness may be realized from the fact that the building of the pyramids, looked upon as one of the greatest labors of any time, becomes insignificant. The cost of the new additions alone to the existing system will be greater than that of the Panama canal.

The need for such a mighty system is indicated by the traffic estimates for 1925 based on the rate of growth in the past. By that time it is figured that the number of passengers carried will be more than 3,000,000,000 during the year, a total of more than three times the number of passengers carried on all the steam railroads of the country at present.

Necessarily, the financing of this work has proven an enormous problem, but as matters now stand the city is to furnish an amount equal to the investment of the operating company for construction, with certain agreements covering any further needs for the completion of the projected lines. The need for such a costly system is indicated by the increase in land values in New York in the last 10 years. During that period the increase exceeded the combined output of all the gold and silver mines in the country by $170,000,000, and was greater than the dividends paid by all the railroads of the country by $278,000,000. It is to furnish traveling facilities in keeping with such expansion that New York is now undertaking the completion of the greatest job on record.

That New York may be on the verge of a great political upheaval is one of the most interesting points now being discussed in connection with the Rosenthal shooting, in which a gambler on the eve of furnishing the district attorney with evidence, which he claimed would involve the police in a scandal with the gamblers, was coolly put out of the way in the heart of the city. Even staid New Yorkers are forced to admit the presence here of bands of hired assassins who will do anything with any designated victim, provided their price be paid. The political significance of the murder is at present confined to speculations as to what the result will be if District Attorney Whitman is actually able to bring the murderers to justice, and in so doing develops complicity between the police, the gamblers and the hired murderers.

Such a result would cause the greatest airing of dirty political linen since the days of the Lexow committee, and it is believed would make Mr. Whitman the logical Republican candidate for the governorship of the state. In this connection it is pointed out that the conditions revealed by the Lexow investigating committee, which laid bare an almost unbelievable state of corruption, resulted in the swinging of the state from the Democratic party, which was then in power, to the Republican ticket resulting in a succession of Republican governors. Added importance is given to the present situation because of the fact that this is a Presidential year.

The automatic newsboy has at last arrived in New York—the latest of a long line of penny in the slot machines—and as a result, while it has been attracting much attention, it has also brought terror to the hearts of Father Knickerbocker's 15,000 human "newsies" who get their livelihood by the sale of daily papers. Automatic machines of various kinds from those which tell one's weight to those which sell accident and life insurance are of course nothing new, but this latest development in this field may yet effect a youthful revolution.

Apparently, the new machine is capable of performing every function of the human newsboy except that of yelling "wuxtry" and its failure to do this will doubtless be looked upon as a blessing. However, if this be regarded as a deficiency, it is likely that a phonographic attachment can easily supply as much racket as the most leather-lunged youngster. The machine is divided into several compartments holding 60 papers each, and the only operation necessary to the securing of any paper is the dropping of the price into the slot under the name of the desired publication. Thus the middleman, or in this case the middle boy, is edliminated. From this arises the fear of the youngsters who realize that any general adoption of the machine will deprive them of a means of livelihood.

To his already long list of social organizations, Father Knickerbocker has now added one more which is said to be unique in the history of the city, if not of the whole country. This is the "homeless husbands' club." It has been created by a number of men who, while their families are in the country, are forced to remain in the city, but who do not care to keep open the lonely house or apartment. Of course these homeless men are all members of many clubs at which they might live. But this the homeless ones have found a drawback, since when one of them wishes to find another homeless friend it is frequently necessary for him to search through eight of a dozen clubs to locate him.

Accordingly these summer widowers, acting perhaps on the theory that misery loves company, got together and leased two complete floors in one of the city's largest and newest hotels. Each member will have a suite to himself and, while from the nature of things it is expected that the occupants of the reserved floors usually will be men, there is nothing in the regulations to prevent a man from having the women members of his family stop with him if they chance to be in town over night. There is pantry service on each floor and a large suite is to be reserved for dining rooms. A suite on the corner of each floor will be reserved for lounging purposes and later on it is likely that billiard tables and other usual club paraphernalia will be introduced. The popularity of the new club is evidenced by the presence on its board of governors of many of the city's noted men.

That the intricacies of the ancient and royal game of golf may, from a legal as well as a physical standpoint, be too much even for the venerable judges of the appellate term of the supreme court of this state, was indicated here this week in a strange case brought by an aggrieved golfer to recover damages from an express company for the loss of a favorite golf club. The case was brought by a man who had expressed a particularly cherished golf club to New York to be repaired, with the result that it was lost. The lower court awarded nominal damages of one cent as against $100 asked by the plaintiff, a decision which the appellate division at once set aside.

Perhaps the most interesting part of this action occurs in the decision of the presiding appellate judge who declared that "the trial judge, learned in all things but golf, had evidently misconceived this case and treated it in a spirit of levity not at all warranted by the facts. The evidence shows an utter failure on the part of the defendant to exercise reasonable care in insuring prompt delivery to the consignee, though it had full knowledge of the necessity for the prompt delivery. As a result of this decision golf is likely to become an important part of the judicial curriculum in this state, since knowledge of this game, the opinion of the appellate judge indicates has now become necessary to justices and officers who may be called to settle knotty problems in this connection.

Hat for a Young Girl.

The hat of cerise milan, has a medium crown and a wide brim curving over the face and then outward. Two frills of gray velvet are laid on the brim and a cluster of tiny roses is set at the back. The plumes in shades of cerise and gray sweep upward and backward over the crown.

THE DELAWARES AND THE NEBRASKAS.

The first two games to be played by the Trojans are with what are considered the best teams in the fleet, the Delawares Saturday and the undisputed champion Nebraskas on the day following. These two games are expected to bring out the banner crowds of the season.

The Nebraska team contains two players in particular who are thought by a large following to be fast enough for the big leagues. These are Gibson, a star first baseman, and a brother of Gibson who catches for Pittsburgh of the National League. The other is a pitcher named Rosenberg, who is considered the best pitcher who has ever represented a navy team on the ball field. At the start of this season the Nebraskas played an exhibition game with the New York Nationals and held them to a 3 to 2 score. Rosenberg has a record of winning 102 games and losing but two in three years, while with the Nebraska.

GROWS NEW HAIR IN THIRTY DAYS.

Science Discovers Marvelous South American Shrub, Makes Hair Grow on the Baldest Head in Thirty Days' Stops Falling Hair, Restores Natural Color to Gray, Faded Hair, Makes Dry, Brittle Hair Soft, Glossy and Beautiful. Kills The Dandruff Germ.

Picture an absolutely bald head, bare as an egg, develop in thirty days a full, healthy growth of hair fully two inches long. Hair that has been coming out in handfuls with every combing, stop falling in twenty-four hours. Gray, streaked, faded hair changed slowly but surely to its original and natural color without the use of dyes. Dry, dull, brittle and dying hair becoming in two short weeks, soft, glossy and beautiful. The hair-destroying dandruff germ killed in three days and the hair and scalp forever cleansed of every trace of dandruff.

This is marvelous and truly wonderful to contemplate; yet with the important discovery by noted chemists of the hair growing properties of the little known Pernambuco shrub of South America, when combined with other ingredients, it would seem certain that all this and more has been accomplished and will be accomplished in thousands of cases in the near future.

Many who were absolutely bald testify that to it they owe their present full, handsome growth of hair. Men and women unnumbered, declare it has changed their gray, streaked, dry, dull and brittle hair into a most beautiful, soft, glossy, luxuriant growth of natural color and has rid the scalp of every trace of dandruff. That it has put new life into weakened and shrunken hair follicles; revived the old and enfeebled hair roots that for years, perhaps, had lain dormant and seemingly dead.

The technical or pharmaceutical name for the liquid made from the juice of this wonderful shrub is Tavona (de compose). The pure juice is too strong and powerful to be used in its natural state and should be diluted with Bay Rum and a little Menthol Crystals should be added as a stimulant to the scalp. All three of these ingredients can be obtained at any drug store and the following formula has produced the best and most satisfactory results and is identical with the one used in the cases cited above: Tavona (de Compose), 2 ozs.; Menthol Crystals one-half drachm; Bay Rum, 6 ozs. These three should be poured in an 8 oz. bottle, shaken thoroughly and allowed to stand over night before using.

This formula applied twice a day and rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips, will almost immediately stop the itching of the scalp and destroy all the dandruff germs. It will arrest falling hair in a very few applications and it will quickly produce a wonderful growth of new hair on any head no matter how bald, if used before the roots have been entirely destroyed. In using this preparation be very careful not to apply to the face or where hair is not desired, as wherever hair roots exist it will surely make the hair grow.

PRESBYTERIAN STATISTICS.

Small Increase in Membership and the Number of Churches Less Than Six Years Ago.

Statistics issued by Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, show that for the year ended March 31 last the net increase in church membership in the United States was only 25,605. The whole church membership is given at 1,386,058 and the Sunday School membership at 1,232,817. There are 37 synods, 292 presbyteries, 9,274 ministers and 10,030 churches.

The total contributions were $25,795,615. Of this $1,818,345 was for home missions, $1,437,660 for foreign missions, $165,065 for colleges, $223,398 for church erection, $126,131 for temperance and $18,653,574 for congregations.

While there has been a growth of 88,566 in members since 1907, the number of churches is 1,052 smaller than six years ago, and nearly 1,000 churches are now without pastors.

HER FELLOW FEELING.

[Lippincott's.]

The children had been disobedient and troublesome and the mother, instead of punishing them, brought them into line by telling them a pathetic story of orphans who had no home. Little Jack, in tears, rolled under the sofa to hide his grief. Mary stood out a little longer, then called: "Come on out, Jack, I'm crying too."

SPIRIT OF THE TIME LACKING.

Roosevelt Says Taft Failed to Meet Live Issues in His Speech.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—President Taft failed, said Colonel Roosevelt today, to meet the live issues in his speech accepting the Republican nomination. The President confined himself largely to conservative utterances upon general questions, Colonel Roosevelt contended, and seemed to be afraid to commit himself upon the question of the hour, such as the collection of tolls on the Panama canal. The colonel said he was amused by many of the President's remarks, such as his statement that constitutional amendments are not work and that referendums do not pay rent. He believed the speech was a negative, conservative document, which failed to catch the spirit of the time.

Colonel Roosevelt's "confession of faith," to be made in Chicago next week, is a speech he says he takes more interest in than any other he has ever delivered. His proposals, he believes, may be regarded as ultra radical in some quarters and if the national progressive convention is to nominate him and adopt a platform to go with the ticket, he wished to have his views known in detail before hand, so the convention may act in the light of full knowledge of his position.

In the past, as a member of the Republican party, he said he had felt that he must shape his personal utterances to conform with the position of the party. With this restraint removed, he will father measures which, he feels, may give his supporters a new conception of his position. It is expected that Colonel Roosevelt's speech will be of much influence in shaping the new party's platform and if its principal provisions are incorporated, the speech will be printed in pamphlet form and distributed broadcast over the country as a campaign text book.

Colonel Roosevelt said that he did not expect to have any more councils of war at Sagamore Hill before going to Chicago Sunday. It is the colonel's intention to devote the remaining period to his family and to outdoor recreation.

Manufacturers to Meet Representatives of Union.

Weavers' Plan Said to be Better Than Grading System of Payment.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 2.—That a settlement of the weavers' strike, which has closed 12 cotton cloth mills here and thrown 13,000 workers into idleness, may be effected shortly was the general opinion among strikers today. Satisfaction was caused by the announcement that the manufacturers would confer with representatives of the union. The weavers wish to outline a scheme of payment to supersede the grading system, which caused the strike.

Last night, at a meeting of the executive committee of the weavers' union, which started the strike, a letter was read from Secretary William O. Devoll of the Manufacturers' Association announcing that organization's willingness to confer with the weavers. The letter was in reply to one sent yesterday by the officials of the weavers' union announcing that the weavers had a plan to submit to the manufacturers.

Following the reading of the letter the executive committee of the weavers' union voted to submit a plan to the manufacturers. President Hobin said the plan was a better one than the grading system of payment, which was the cause of the strike.

The weavers' union members were satisfied to let the strike drift along and claimed that they had the situation well in hand, and that they could remain out of the mills long enough to cripple the manufacturers. They had been standing lining and grading long enough and it came to the point where they thought they could not stand it longer. Members of the other unions, although in sympathy with the weavers, after two weeks' idleness by strike, and seeing that the weavers were not disposed to try to settle the strike, and a like disposition on the part of the manufacturers, intervened and actually forced the weavers to seek the conference with the manufacturers which seemed an assured fact when the manufacturers read the letter of the weavers' union officials sent last night, and which should reach the manufacturers this morning. It is intimated that the weavers' union simply did as the textile council directed, to keep peace between the unions, for the officers openly say the mills cannot open without the weavers, and the weavers will not go back to work unless they work under fairer conditions than heretofore.

Financial assistance was given strikers' families by the Textile Council today, and collectors for the Industrial Workers of the World went to other mill cities in this state and Rhode Island in search of relief funds.

EMANCIPATION PRELIMINARIES.

President Lincoln's Ideas on Slavery Hardened Into Purpose During July, 1862.

[Boston Transcript.]

In the closing days of July, 1862, an idea which President Lincoln had for some time entertained was rapidly hardening into a purpose. At a cabinet meeting held on the twety second he brought before his advisers the question whether it would not be the most direct blow to rebellion to issue a proclamation of emancipation of the slaves. He had talked this project over some days before with two members of his cabinet in whose company he was returning from the funeral of the infant child of Secretary Stanton, but received no great amount of encouragement. At the cabinet meeting on the twenty second only Stanton and Attorney General Bates were at all cordial towards the emancipation suggestion. Seward gave it a half-hearted assent, but advised postponement until emancipation should come as the culminating effect of a Union victory. On this advice Lincoln eventually acted, for the emancipation proclamation was issued within a week of the battle of Antietam, to become effective January 1, 1863. The secret of the cabinet meeting was well kept, so well, indeed, that it was not even known previous to the issuing of the provisional proclamation in September, or two months after Lincoln and his counsellors had talked together on the subject.

It seems plain enough to us now, 50 years after the event, that the war was a contest between the Union and slavery. That issue, however, was by no means so perceptible to the people of 1862 as it is to their descendants. Lincoln had hesitated a long time, turning the expediency of emancipation over in his mind. As we look upon Lincoln now he was moved by philanthropy in striking the shackles off the slaves in the Confederate states, but as we study the Lincoln of 1862 we realize that emancipation was a move of political expediency. His proclamation shows that he issued it as a war measure and under the war power the President is given by the constitution. He was not the first man to discover in the constitution the authority of the President as commander-in-chief to destroy slavery. John Quincy Adams, who died in 1848, had greatly angered and offended the slave holders by maintaining that during war the President of the United States could, without calling upon Congress for its consent, emancipate slaves as a military measure; he could take them into the army or put them in the navy and for any reason that seemed to him expedient could set them free.

Lincoln was not by instinct a radical. He would have preferred compensated, gradual emancipation. He never for a moment contemplated doing what was done in the re-construction era, turning ignorant millions into the electorate. His idea was that the negroes of the United States ought, by careful preparation he made ready to understand the ballot and its meaning and vote with a sense of their responsibility as citizens. This process would have taken a long time and Lincoln well knew the fact. Had he been able to persuade Congress to pass an act of graduated emancipation and to persuade the South to accept that act, undoubtedly he would have preferred to take that course rather than that he eventually adopted. He was told by some of his advisers that the issuance of the emancipation proclamation, so far from eliciting enthusiasm, would probably call forth opposition, and the event justified this prediction, for in the fall elections of '62, which came after the public had learned Lincoln's intention to free the slaves, the Republican party fared badly. It lost the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and barely held its own in some other states, which two years before had been enthusiastic for Lincoln.

Noon—Despite extensive profit-taking today's stock market continued to move forward. Trading slackened after a spirited first hour, in which the transactions were on the basis of a million shares a day. Leadership was wrested from Steel by Reading, the stock being active, while Lehigh Valley rose some two points. Steel's relative backwardness was associated with the publication of the Stanley report and pressure against St. Paul and Union Pacific was shown, the latter, however, quickly recovering to above yesterday's best. Other active stocks ranged from steady to strong while various specialties, including Harvester and Can, made material gains.

Bonds were firm. Money on call, steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4¾ to 5 per cent. Exchange, $347,006,056; balances $20,511,338.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Preston Gibson, Craig Biddle, Austin L. Sands and William H. Sands. Following the luncheon a number of guests were entertained by Captain William S. Benson and other officers of the ship. These included Countess Szechenyi, Mrs. French Vanderbilt, Mrs. J. Norman deR. Whitehouse, Mrs. Preston Gibson, Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mrs. Lewis S. Chanler, Mrs. Austin L. Sands and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas.

Mrs. Forsyth Wickes gave a luncheon at "Zeerust" in honor of her mother, Mrs. George Griswold Haven, who arrived this week at the Pinard cottages.

Mme. Bakhmeteff entertained at luncheon at the Russian embassy, her guests being Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. John R. Drexel, Mrs. Richard Irving, Miss Lota Robinson, Miss Beale, Mr. James V. Parker, and Mr. Haniel von Halmhausen, charge d'affaires of the German embassy.

Luncheons were also given by Mrs. Frederick M. Davies at "Pinecroft," Mrs. John Sanford at the Pinard cottages, Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman at "Land's End," and Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs at "Rosecliff."

Mr. A. C. Hortsmann gave a dinner Thursday evening, at the German embassy, followed by informal dancing.

Mrs. J. Fred Pierson, Jr., gave a luncheon this afternoon and Mrs. and Mrs. H. A. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. W. Goadby Loew will give dinners this evening. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz will give a small dance at her residence, "Beaumaris," on Wickham road, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. NINE MINISTERS PRESENT.

Rhode Island Quarterly Meeting of Friends Hears Addresses and Reports of Work.

The Rhode Island Quarterly Meeting of the Society of Friends was held in the Friends' meeting house in this city Thursday. The attendance was good and the number of ministers unusually large, there being late on the platform. This did not include the resident ministers, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kimber, who were kept at home by the illness of their son, Willam Penn Macomber of Fairhaven sat at the head of the meeting, his place for many years.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. James M. Estes of Portsmouth, George Evans of Yorktown Heights, N. Y., formerly of Swansea, who with his wife had come the distance of 250 miles in an automobile to attend the meeting, preached a short sermon, followed by William P. Macomber, who was also brief. An address was given by William T. Boyce, a North Carolinian and a member of Baltimore Yearly Meeting, who is preaching for the summer at Lynn. Rev. Raymond B. Mendenhall of Sayleaville was the next speaker and Rev. James M. Estes of Portsmouth the last.

Other ministers not named were Rev. Samuel L. Haworth of Fall River, Mrs. Mary Kimber of New York, widow of Thomas Kimber, and Mrs. E. Annah Tucker of East Greenwich.

Dinenr was served in the dining room under the management of Mrs. Annie Manchester, the younger members of the church acting as waiters and waitresses.

At the afternoon business meeting the clerk, Thomas Battey, being absent, Charls A. Sisson of Providence was named to act. Among many matters of interest developed in the reports was that three new Bible schools have been established in New England Quarterly Meeting this year making 10 in all. The number of members in the meeting is 826, a loss of 16 during the year.

A letter from London Yearly Meeting was read, which evoked a long and earnest discussion, in which both men and women took part.

NEW MAIN TO GREEN END POND.

Water Works Men Finish Work Which Will Bring New Supply From Paradise.

The Water Works men have nearly finished laying a new main, of 16-inch iron pipe, from the Paradise pumping station to the north, or Green End, pond. This has been going on since the job of laying the big main to Fort Adams roads was finished, in early June. When the new main is in action all the water will be filtered in the new filters. Under the old arrangement the water from Paradise went through a small filter at that pond, and then pumped into the distributing reservoir. This made it somewhat different from the water from Easton's ponds. The new plan will make it necessary to pump the Paradise water twice, once into the Green End pond and again into the distributing reservoir, but all the water will then be put through the big filter and all will be the same when supplied to consumers. It was quite a job to lay this big main from Paradise to Green End ponds, but the work is over and it is expected that in a short time the water will be flowing from Paradise.

The water used up to this time has all come from the Easton's ponds and the south is now quite low, while the Green End is well down also. The past two months have been a heavy drain on the supply and people would be surprised to see the great quantity of water furnished daily to Newport. It is a question if the city has ever seen two such dry months as June and July were, and it is certain that the Water Works has never supplied so many gallons to consumers as it has during these two months. The big pump has been taxed to its capacity to keep the distributing reservoir full.

MAGIC AND ILLUSIONS.

Mr. Peter Newton, who is to give an exhibition in magic and illusions at the Casino, is the son of a well known Anglican clergyman of New York. He was an elaborate equipment of brilliant apparatus, and has given small entertainments this season at Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's, and at the lawn fetes at "Belair" and Mrs. Harold Brown's. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mrs. W. Starr Miller and Mrs. William Grosvenor.

HIGH PRICES FOR BATHING.

Aldermen Appoint a Committee to Investigate Complaints.

Water Works Bill for Flowing Fountains Referred to the Council—Proposal to Cut Down a Tree.

The Board of Aldermen held the weekly meeting Thursday evening, Mayor Boyle presiding and all except Alderman Albro present. Complaints about the high prices charged by the Beach Association for bathing privileges came up and a committee was appointed to look into the matter. The Water Works Company put in a bill for $1,503.48, for water furnished to flowing fountains and interest thereon, which was referred to the Representative Council. Alderman Shepley had a tree which he seemed anxious to have cut down. Mayor Boyle knew that it takes a long time for a tree to grow, and gave the chairman of the Park Commission no encouragement in his efforts to have a tree in Alderman Albro's district cut down.

The weekly pay rolls were approved for the following amounts: Streets and highways, $2,434.40; police, $1,077.40; fire department, $547.21; city officers, $252.35.

Pay rolls of the school department were approved, as follows: Janitors, $970.78; playground supervisors, $508.93; R. K. B. MacVicar, $70.83; Valina M. Coffin, $18.10; Theophilus Topham $100.

The bill of P. J. Morgan, for $340, balance on the King Park sea wall, was approved.

A petition was received from the Newport & Fall River Street Railway Company, asking permission to locate a pole on Annandale road at Slocum street. It was laid over for a week, to give opportunity for possible protests.

Henry Miller was granted a renewal of a peddler's license and Charles Ritt a renewal of a pool table license. Stevens & Strut were granted an eating house license.

Edward Fogarty and Henry C. Bennett were appointed special policemen and the appointments were confirmed. J. B. F. Smith and Henry A. Kalkman were granted gasoline licenses.

From the office of Sheffield & Harvey, attorneys for the Newport Water Works' came a long paper, the gist of which was that, the supreme court having decided that the city must pay for flowing fountains other than the one on Washington square, the Water Works is ready to receive pay for the fountains for which it has not been paid. The amount due July 1 was $1,-321.77 and the interest thereon $165.05, a total of $1,486.82. This was not all, for there is the fountain on Touro Park West. This had been supplied long enough to make a bill of $16.67 which, added to the others, made the grand total $1,503.48. The bill was referred to the Representative Council. Mayor Boyle said it seemed too bad that, because a City Council had once misinterpreted the contract, the city should be obliged to pay for these fountains, when the plain wording of the contract was that for all purposes the city should not pay more than $10,-000 a year.

Alderman Shepley introduced his tree matter at this point, and said Mr. Hamilton desired the tree cut down. It is full of caterpillars which have rendered it leafless, and the caterpillars fall on the piazza so that people cannot use it. The tree is on Third street, about opposite the school house, and is the middle one of three, the other two not being objectionable. If the street commissioner would not cut it down, Mr. Hamilton could have it removed if permission were granted. Mayor Boyle suggested that there are many trees with caterpillars on them and he could make the same complaint of one near his house. He asked what sort of a tree this is, and if it were alive and its size. It is not a large tree. The matter was finally referred to the street commissioner with power, Alderman Shepley being a committee to see him.

Alderman Hughes presented a petition from the residents of Fillmore street, asking that the street be curbed, graded and macadamized. It was referred to the Representative Council.

Alderman Hughes reported, on the petition of Professor John W. Burgess, that he had visited Gibbs avenue at night and found conditions as represented by Mr. Burgess in his petition. He recommended that the change desired be made—that the middle street light be moved to the north about 30 paces. The board so voted.

Alderman Hughes said many complaints had come to him about the prices charged for bathing at the beach. He did not know whether the board had any jurisdiction, but it seemed that at least a committee might be appointed to look into the situation. The Newport Beach Association had agreed to do all possible to make the beach attractive and popular. He was told that, where formerly nine tickets for bathing could be bought for a dollar, it now costs $2.25 for the same number. Women complain that they are charged for going into the bath houses to undress and dress their children, even though they did not themselves go bathing.

Mayor Boyle said he had also had complaints that the prices are in excess of those formerly charged. It seemed to him to be the duty of the board to look into these complaints, ascertain the true state of affairs and act thereon. It would seem that the board has some duties in this line, and he favored the appointment of a committee.

The board seemed to have the same idea and it was decided to have a committee to investigate the complaints, Aldermen Hughes and Reddy being appointed.

SENT TO THE REFORM SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

In the district court this morning Eva G. McDonald, aged 14, of Hopkinton, Mass., was sentenced to the Reform School for Girls during her minority. The girl was picked up by the police several nights ago on the charge of street walking, and on account of her tender years and apparently refined habits the judge withheld sentence until there was an opportunity of investigating her case further. This morning she appeared in the custody of the police matron, and was informed by the court that the department thought best to have her committed, rather than send her back where she had been living.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

John R. Walker, Employed at E. J. Berwind's Found at Second Beach.

Life Patrol at Easton's Make Timely Rescue of Sinking Girl and Frightened Man.

About 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon a telephone message was received at the station from the F. M. Davies cottage on Purgatory road, notifying the police that a man had been drowned at the Second beach. The body had been discovered on the beach a short time before by a maid from the Davies house, who was unnerved by the unexpected sight. Sergeant Schneider notified Medical Examiner Sherman, who went to the scene. On the way he found Dr. Murphy had heard of the event when passing and had used every effort to resuscitate the man, but without results. The examiner viewed the body and notified Undertaker Cottrell to take charge. It was removed to the morgue.

The man had evidently gone to the beach on a bicycle, been bathing and had been caught in the heavy undertow, which is stronger at this section of the Second beach than at the first of Easton's beach. Some seemed to think he was in the habit of bicycling to the beach daily for a bath. No one had seen him in the water or struggling. His collar was marked J. R. Walker; this was the only thing which could be found to distinguish him and no one seemed to know anything about him.

The body was identified this morning as that of John R. Walker, second man at Mr. E. J. Berwind's. He was 28 years of age, a native of Lancashire, England, and so far as is known here had no relatives in this country.

It was only the afternoon before that John Susa, who fishes from the Second beach, rescued a young woman from drowning there. There were several young women and two men bathing at the time. Susa was mending a boat, when he was called upon for aid by one of the men. His skiff was in the water, he jumped in, rowed out beyond the breakers and picked up the young woman, who had gone down twice. Had he not been there with his boat ready for immediate use she would have been drowned, and she was a good swimmer. It is dangerous to go bathing at the west angle of this beach when there is a strong easterly wind and a heavy sea.

Miss Susie Smith, an employe in the kitchen at the Newport Beach restaurant, had a narrow escape from drowning Thursday afternoon, while a Scotchman who refused to give his name was badly frightened and caused a second rush to render assistance by the life guards. The two alarms came within a short time and the guards had not recovered from the first strenuous effort before they were compelled to participate in the second. Dr. Talcott and two of his assistants, of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps, were on hand and gave practical assistance to the regular beach patrol, while Police Inspector Tobin made the first rush for the Scotchman, not stopping to remove much of his clothing.

For four or five days there has been a stiff sea running and the caution signs announcing a heavy undertow have been up to warn all but expert swimmers against going into deep water. Miss Smith was apparently trying to make the raft at the west section, when her strength gave out either from physical disability or from excessive exertion. Her plight was seen by Patrol Freeman, who made a dash for her, apparently reaching her just in time and then having a strenuous task to hold her up until others came to his assistance and relieved him of his load. Dr. Talcott's assistants were in the water at the time and responded to Freeman's assistance, with the members of the regular patrol, who were spread out along the beach, covering their beats.

Miss Smith when brought in was at once taken in hand by Dr. Talcott. She had lost consciousness but under the use of life saving methods soon rallied, and with the assistance of fellow-workers from the restaurant was dressed and taken to her lodging place, on Bath road. There she became ill and it was deemed advisable late in the afternoon to send her to the hospital, where she is reported this morning as comfortable.

It was down at the east section that the Scotchman found that, while going out had been easy, to return was quite a different matter, as is the case when an undertow runs. His lack of familiarity with this condition of affairs caused him to fight the current bucking against him, and without knowledge of how to fight the pressure successfully he realized that he was being swept out instead of working his way in. His nerve was leaving him and he made a frantic appeal for help from shore.

This was seen by Inspector Tobin, who had just dressed after a bath, and throwing off his coat he took to the water. The alarm also reached the beach patrol, who were just clearing from their action at the other end of the beach and they went down hurriedly to render assistance. The man when pulled out of the surf required no aid, for his nerve had returned when he was able to set his feet on the sand, and the amount of water which he had swallowed had merely given him an unpleasant feeling.

The incidents gave a good opportunity for practical examples of the work of life saving with coaching by Dr. Talcott, who with his assistants rendered assistance only so far as was necessary and observed the work of the regulars, whom they are training. Earlier in the day there was boat drill and the launching of the lifeboats through the surf was an exciting exhibition. The boat does not work just as is desired, and it is believed that the type which the corps is to send here will be in better condition and better fitted for the purpose. The present boat is one which was handed down with other fittings from the "old" beach.

While caution signs have been placed where all could see them for days, there have been those who have persisted in going out to the rafts, finding when they were ready to return that they were not so good swimmers as they thought. This has made work for the life patrol, who have been called to the rafts repeatedly each day to help thoughtless ones back to shore.

MORE THAN 250,000 IN ALL.

Nearly Thirteen Pounds, or Three Bushels of Flies the Total Catch in July.

During the July anti-fly campaign 250,200 flies were brought to the office of the Tuberculosis Society by children contesting for the prizes offered by the committee. On a basis of 340 to an ounce and 1,360 to a gill, there were 205 ounces or 12 13-16 pounds, and 184 gills—46 pints, 23 quarts, 5¾ gallons—or nearly three bushels. In addition about 1,000 were caught in the office, these with the number brought in during May making a total of 256,450 flies killed during the full campaign. More than 60 children entered the contest for July.

The number caught by each of the prize winners follows: Tony Mazzoni, 69,720; Daniel Crowell, 23,215; William Simpson, 19,248; Lucille Peckham, 15,868; Anna Sullivan, 15,562; James Healy, 14,002; James O'Brien, 13,520; Leo Grant, 9,136; Etta Johnson, 7,791; Francis O'Brien, 7,500; Mary McAuliffe 7,140; Catherine Sullivan, 6,717; Pauline Martins, 6,210; Chester Gensen, 5,130; Catherino Lawton, 5,020; John Amoruso, 3,927; Lillie Morris, 2,400; May Mullette 2,250; Marian Edgar, 2,006; Margaret Sweeney, 1,700; Alfred Edward, 1,630.

The first prizes $10 go to Tony Mazzoni and Lucille Peckahm; the second, $5, to Daniel Crowell and Anna Sullivan; the third, $3, to William Simpson and Etta Johnson and the other prizes, five of $2 each and 10 of $1 each, in the order named.

Tony Mazzino is quite a character, and an industrious boy. He may not have the advantages of many lads of his age, but when he grows to be a man he bids fair to make his mark in the world. Killing nearly 70,000 flies would be more than enough occupation for most boys of his age for one month in vacation time, but Tony in addition has been an active seller of The News. Lucille Peckham is a diffident little girl, but her record shows her to be persistent.

NEEDED BY NEWPORT.

Thursday Excursions from Boston and Launch Trips to the Battleships.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

What's the matter with Newport? Other places have boards or committees working to bring business to their towns. San Francisco has, to my knowledge, sent across the continent several years, to try to get a convention of 100 people to meet there. I am told Newport has nobody to do this sort of thing. We are losing much money, but nobody seems to care.

We have stores which New York and Boston visitors are glad to patronize. It seems to me that a few live men should meet at once and put in a strong call for some Thursday excursions from Boston. They will never come without some effort at this end, and the season is well along now.

There should be good money in taking visitors to board the battleships. They might as well be in Alaska as in our harbor with no way to see them, short of putting up a dollar or two. Most men can't afford that, and it should be possible to make the round trip and pass an hour on some ship, at a total cost of 25 cents. Will somebody please do something, and "do it now?"

TABER—OSGOOD.

Mr. Henry R. Taber of Cambridge, formerly of this city, and Miss Edna Osgood, daughter of Rev. Franklin Osgood, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Mark Nesmith, in Winthrop, Mass., Thursday afternoon. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride was attended by her sister as matron of honor and Mr. Mark Nesmith acted as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Bertha Taber of this city, sister of the groom. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Taber left for a month's stay in New Hampshire. They will be at home at 1573 Cambridge street, Cambridge, after September 15.

CHAUFFEUR AND MAID INJURED.

George Koschny Has Broken Leg, Mlle Laglenne Concussion of Brain.

Miss Drexel Escapes When Her Hupmobile is Smashed by Delivery Automobile.

There was an automobile accident at the corner of Bellevue and Wheatland avenues just before noon today, which for a while promised to be serious, and it is even now uncertain whether or not it will result fatally for either of the two persons injured.

Miss Alice G. Drexel was driving her little Hupmobile runabout down Bellevue avenue toward Bailey's beach and the Seaside Market's delivery automobile, driven by Harry M. Campbell, was coming out of Yznaga avenue and turning toward Wheatland. Campbell says he saw Miss Drexel coming and blew his horn and finally had his car practically at a standstill, when the Hupmobile struck his right front wheel. The lighter car was tossed over toward the west side of the avenue and skidded about 30 feet, coming to a stop in front of the Thayer estate, with the front part practically demolished and sticking into the ground, and the car into the hedge.

Miss Drexel, who was driving, was wedged between the seat and the steering wheel. She escaped serious injury and was not thrown from the car. Her chauffeur, George Koschny, was sitting on the running board and was thrown by the impact against the curb and was badly hurt. He had one leg broken just below the knee and his head was cut open. The French maid, Mlle Laglenne, who was sitting on the seat beside Miss Drexel, was also tossed out and struck on the ground. Apparently she has several ribs broken and there is fear that her back may be broken also.

The injured ones were at once taken into the Thayer house and the telephone was kept busy, summoning doctors. Both were unconscious for a long time and at first it was rumored that both were dead. Drs. Anderson, Murphy and Keenan were soon at the scene and Mrs. Drexel was brought by Dr. Easton. It was seen that both the injured would need hospital treatment and they were taken there, the chauffeur going in an automobile and the maid in the ambulance.

Mrs. Drexel gave instructions to have everything possible done for them and followed to the hospital in Dr. Easton's machine. She stated that her daughter had escaped injury in the smash-up. It seemed, however, that this must be almost impossible, though the fact that she was not thrown out saved her from the serious injuries which the others suffered.

Driver Campbell claims that his car was not at fault. He did not hear Miss Drexel sound her horn, and apparently she did not see his car until it was too late to avoid a collision. The delivery car lost the tire from the wheel which was struck, but otherwise seemed to be uninjured, while the Hupmobile was a complete wreck.

A great crowd was quickly gathered about the scene and it seemed for a time that everybody in Newport was coming to see the wreck. It was a real wreck and all the evidences seen about the place would lead one to believe the first reports, that two had been killed and several injured.

Late this afternoon Dr. Easton, who with Dr. Stowart was engaged to take charge of the two injured persons reported that the chauffeur, George Koschny, had a fracture of the leg, below the knee, and otherwise was all right. Mlle. Laglenne is suffering from concussion of the brain, but has no broken bones and will come out all right. Miss Drexel was not hurt at all.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexel and Mr. W. H. Neilson all went to the hospital to see the injured and gave directions to have everything possible done for them.
